U. S. Atomic Chief Issues Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission says "it is idle to assume that it is beyond the capabilities of our potential enemies to develop atomic weapons with a tremendously destructive capacity."

"It is also a fallacy," he said, "to assume that a stockpile of atomic weapons in our hands is in itself any longer a complete deterrent to aggressive action."

Strauss made the statements in a letter to Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) dated Aug. 19 and evidently written a few hours before Moscow announced that a type of hydrogen bomb had been exploded in a Soviet experiment.

The AEC chairman shortly thereafter issued a statement confirming that U. S. monitors had detected an atomic explosion in the Soviet, on Aug. 12, and that it included "thermonuclear" reactions, the scientific name for the hydrogen fusion process.

Wiley, Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, had written Strauss to ask his views on vulnerability of this country to possible atomic attack, saying many people live in a "fool's paradise" believing that possession of more atomic bombs would prevent an enemy attack.

"The destructiveness of atomic weapons is such that no one with any feeling of responsibility for the nation's welfare and his own and his family's safety can afford to dismiss, or ignore, or minimize the impact," Strauss replied.

Strauss said he agreed with Wiley that "the public generally should know everything that can be revealed that does not compromise military information and that concerns the nature and threat of atomic warfare." He added:

"The public should also have the most thorough familiarity with civilian defense requirements, and the apathy which has characterized this area in past years must be dispelled."

The letter, made public today by Wiley, came as members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee were assembling for a closed session to discuss "current events."

Obviously, the latest Soviet atomic development was the big item on the agenda. Asked to brief committee members were officials of Strauss' commission and of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It seemed doubtful that there would be much elaboration, for the public, on Strauss' statement of early yesterday, which said the United States had produced in 1951 and 1952 atomic tests the same sort of reaction detected in the Aug. 12 Soviet blast.

Young Shah Returning To Iranian Throne

Old Mossadegh Held Under Guard After New Premier Named

ROME (AP) — Triumphant smiling Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, Shah of Iran, flew homeward today to the explosive country he fled five days ago.

Awaiting him in his land of carpets and oil were a new premier loyal to the monarchy, jubilant crowds cheering their 33-year-old ruler and a panama-clad prisoner under heavy guard — old ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Rome's Iranian colony and legation, which turned its back on the Shah's arrival as a fugitive Monday with 20-year-old Queen Soraya, came out in force to cheer his departure by plane early today.

In a chartered airliner, the Shah and a party of officials and newsmen headed for Baghdad, capital of his own country's next-door neighbor, Iraq.

The young monarch planned to lunch early this afternoon with Iraq's King Faisal, then perhaps fly on to Tehran later today.

QUEEN SORAYA, exhausted and upset by the excitement, remained in Rome to rest up.

Also left behind was the Shah's strong-willed twin sister, Princess Ashraf. Mossadegh had exiled her because she fought his encroachments on the royal power. She hurried from the Riviera to her brother's side yesterday. She said she might drop in on Tehran later for a visit.

Baghdad had been the Shah's first haven Sunday after Mossadegh's overthrow.

U. S. Solons Plan 'Rough' Trip To Congo

WASHINGTON (AP) — A projected field trip to the Belgian Congo drew a small group of lawmakers here today, each equipped with "clothing for rough wear."

The congressmen, members of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, began assembling for a month-long inspection trip on which they leave Sunday.

A committee aide said the lawmakers were advised to pack heavy duty shoes and clothing for their visit to Africa's gold mines and uranium plants.

"We'll take our working clothes with us," said Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio). "We're not going to call on the kings and queens. We're going to do some work in trying to acquaint ourselves with this gigantic program."

The party will include three or four Atomic Energy Commission officials, as well as Sens. Cordon (R-Ore.) and Russell (D-Ga.), and Reps. Cole (R-NY), Hinchey (R-Calif.), Van Zandt (R-Pa.), Hollifield (D-Calif.) and Price (D-Ill.). Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) will join them in London.

Hickenlooper, vice chairman of the committee, went to Europe on other business last week.

The group will get the VIP (very important people) treatment from Belgian and South African government officials.

Housewife Aids Trapped Fliers

XENIA (AP) — Two Air Force pilots from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base owe their lives to the quick thinking and bravery of a 130-pound housewife.

When their plane crashed and burned on a farm near here today, Mrs. Genevieve Zimmerman, 40, ran to the wreckage, slid back the cover of the cowl and pulled one man from the burning craft.

A few minutes later her daughter, Darlene, 18, and three men broke the cowl which was jammed and pulled the second man from the plane.

The two airmen, Capt. John H. Saxton, 30, and Capt. Hubert G. Pedersen, 36, instructor pilots at Wright-Patterson, escaped with only minor cuts and shock.

150 Rollicking American GIs Gain Freedom From Commies

PANMUNJOM (AP) — A rollicking 150 Americans, the largest single-day delivery yet in the Korean War prisoner exchange, rode out of Red captivity at this wayside village last night.

Eager as youngsters, they shouted and danced as they were freed with 300 South Koreans.

The Americans were from Camp 1 at Chongson on the Yalu River, the Red stockade for "incorrigibles" who resisted Communism.

The repatriates said the first group of Americans from a fourth Red prison—Camp 9 Kangye—arrived last night at Kaesong, the Red clearing site.

All other American POWs sent back have been from Camps 1, 3 and 5, including some men transferred to these camps from other stockades.

TODAY'S SHIPMENT was expected to include some Camp 9 prisoners, a number of whom were reported only recently captured.

The Reds said today's delivery would include 94 Americans—30 of them sick or wounded—300 South Koreans, 23 British, 13 Canadians, 3 Australians, 2 French, 1 Turk and 1 Colombian.

The 150 Americans returned last night brought the total to 1,465 of the 3,313 the Reds said they held. In all, 6,983 Allied prisoners have been returned of the 12,763 listed by the Communists.

No Communist POWs were sent north yesterday for the second straight day, but more were scheduled to be handed over Saturday. Typhoon winds earlier in the week halted shipments from the Allied island prison camps off Korea.

Last night's repatriates included the highest-ranking Allied officer yet turned over—South Korean Col. Lim Ik Soon, assistant division commander of the ROK Capital Division. He was captured in mid-July.

Meanwhile, the troop transport Marine Adder loaded American repatriates at Inchon. It was scheduled to leave Saturday morning for the two-week trip to San Francisco with 374 Americans aboard.

Freed POWs Tell Of Reds' Brutality

PANMUNJOM (AP) — American prisoners returning here last night bore more reports of Red brutality and mistreatment, especially against Allied airmen.

The Reds were "death against American aviators," said Cpl. Philip E. Rogers of Denver. He said one Navy flier from the U. S. Carrier Leyte was stripped to a light shirt and summer pants, and forced to remain outside in 25 below zero weather.

Another repatriate told of a mentally ill American soldier tied to a tree outside the hospital at Camp 1 and left there until he died.

"I think they tied him to that tree and let him die there because they just did not want to take proper care of him," said Cpl. Melvin R. Heath of Indianapolis.

Cpl. Gildo Rodriguez of New York City said he saw Communists machine gun five truck-loads of wounded American POWs.

He said he thought it possible the Reds were confused and thought they were firing at Allied vehicles because they riddled the drivers' cabs as well as the canvas-covered truck bodies.

Another American said 50 Americans were "blown to bits or buried alive" when American planes attacked an unmarked POW area.

Cpl. Donald W. Manuel of Racine, Ohio, said the Reds knew the area of Korean huts was under daily attack as a military target by Allied planes, but refused to mark the area as a POW camp.

More Ohio GIs Freed By Reds

Cpl. Donald E. Frazee, 848 Sunlight Ave., Dayton.

Pfc. James J. Vgopone, 999 Prospect Rd., Ashtabula.

Morocco Gets Another Sultan

French Maintaining Iron Hand On Colony

PARIS (AP) — Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafat was proclaimed as the new Sultan of Morocco today.

Moroccans received calmly the news that Arafat, the 64-year-old uncle of Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who was deposed by France as Sultan yesterday and sent into exile on Corsica, is to move into the ruler's palace at Rabat.

Apparently the threat of civil war between the deposed Sultan's Nationalistic followers and the Berber countrymen who rallied behind Pasha Thami El Glaoui of Marrakech had receded.

No outbreaks of violence were reported, either in French Morocco or Tangier, the international zone.

But France maintained an iron vigil over her North African protectorate. Heavy guards were alert in all Moroccan cities.

A FRENCH government spokesman announced last night that Arafat, a wealthy resident of Fez, would succeed to the throne as Morocco's temporal and religious ruler.

The senior religious council of Morocco, a tribunal of Ulemas or religious scholars, confirmed the selection today in a meeting at Fez.

Next will come Arafat's solemn enthronement at Rabat. The time of this ceremony has not been set.

Young Gunman Kills, Robs Ohio Trucker

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — A young father of two children killed and robbed an Ohio truck driver early today after directing the victim into Fort Wayne, police said.

Detective Capt. Mitchell Cleveland said Charles E. Roberts, 25, admitted in a signed statement he shot Dale Roy Young, 27, Barberton, Ohio, and took $32 and his wrist watch.

The statement said the shooting took place about 15 minutes after Roberts had robbed a filling station on U. S. 30 at the east edge of Fort Wayne.

Roberts said in the statement that Young asked for directions and he told the Ohio man to follow him. Roberts said he drove his 1929 model car into Fort Wayne and circled aimlessly around.

He said Young became angry, got out of the cab of his truck and yelled:

"What the hell are you trying to do?"

Roberts said he fired one shot from his shotgun, which struck Young in the chest.

Nearby residents gave police a description of the old model car and Roberts was arrested 10 minutes later.

Roberts' statement said he was "confused and (does) not remember what took place too clearly."

Police could not determine how much money was taken from the filling station.

Cuba Listed As First To Back America

Indian Resolution Gets Close Study In U. N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Scandinavian countries today joined the growing list of U. N. governments lining up in favor of India's participation in the Korean peace conference.

Despite increased United States efforts to block the inclusion of India, Denmark this morning became a co-sponsor of an Australia-New Zealand resolution recommending a seat for Prime Minister Nehru's government.

BOTH SWEDEN and Norway later told the General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee they would support the proposal.

A short time later, Cuba became the first U. N. member to line up with the United States in opposing India's inclusion in the conference.

Meanwhile, the delegates studied a new Indian proposal which some said would give Communist China and North Korea a veto over the U. N.'s choices for the conference table.

The new Indian move coincided with a step by the United States in its drive to keep India out of the negotiations. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced he would vote against inviting India to the conference table.

The General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee meanwhile kept up its efforts to pick a slate of representatives to sit at the conference. Committee Chairman Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil said if the delegates didn't hurry up, they couldn't finish by next week.

The Indian resolution proposed that U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold communicate the (Continued on Page Two)

Con Killed In Western Prison Riot

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — Three-hundred inmates of the Washington State Reformatory last night went on a destructive spree that ended hours later with one man dead, three injured and five of the institution's sprawling buildings destroyed by fire.

Half of the rioters were in a cell block, the others on the grounds in the center of the buildings they had set torch to in a sudden outbreak of frenzied viciousness.

The rioters struck without warning during the evening recreation period. One group took over one of the reformatory's two large cell blocks and the other ran through the grounds setting fire to the surrounding buildings.

Three-hundred other prisoners took no part in the uprising.

Guards at first made no effort to stop the stone-throwing, bat-hurling, cursing, howling convicts.

Then, several hours after the first outbreak at 7 p. m., a group of the men on the grounds tried to break through the gate. Guards, almost shoulder to shoulder atop the 30 foot high walls and armed with everything from riot guns to tommyguns, opened fire.

Four men fell. One was mortally wounded. Another, struck by a ricocheting bullet which passed through his head right behind his eyes, lay on the ground screaming.

Doctors said later he would be forever sightless.

The other two were not wounded seriously.

2 Ohioans Listed By Reds As Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today identified 43 more Americans reported by the Communists to have died in captivity.

With the new list, the Pentagon has made public the names of 837 U. S. service men so described in reports submitted by the enemy.

Ohioans on today's list: Cpl. Charles E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, Rt. 2, Ironton.

Pfc. Andrew F. Petho, son of Mrs. Julia Petho, Cleveland.

French Strike End Is Seen

Non-Red Unions Order Workers Back To Jobs

PARIS (AP) — Non-Communist unions ordered thousands of workers back to their jobs today, the first break in the wave of strikes that has strangled France for 16 days.

But the back-to-work trek was slow. Unions were meeting all over France to discuss the terms of settlement.

The Socialist Workers' Force and the Christian Labor Federation reached agreement with Premier Joseph Laniel's government early today for postal, telegraph and telephone workers to end their strike. Other government workers were expected to join the movement.

But attempts to put in telephone calls to other cities in France still were fruitless this afternoon. The communications services were not expected to be back to normal before Monday.

ON OTHER strike fronts there was little perceptible change. Only a few railroad trains were running, though Socialists and Catholics ordered their rail men back to work.

The government was reported to have promised the postal, telephone and telegraph strikers:

1. To call into session before Sept. 30 a commission to consider a general upward revision of French wages.

2. To take no sanctions against strikers.

3. To consult the unions before putting into effect Laniel's proposed economy decrees upping retirement age limits and cutting other benefits.

These decrees were the original cause of the strike. The strikers later added demands for wage increases and bonuses.

The settlement was expected to form a pattern for settlement of other strikes.

The Catholic union today restated its demand that Parliament be called back next week to consider the labor situation.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, left out of the negotiations, had not yet indicated any end to its walkout.

Spreckles Jailed In Beating Case

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sugar heir Adolph Spreckles II was jailed last night on suspicion of beating his fifth former wife, actress Kay Williams.

The beating took place Wednesday but the story didn't leak out until detectives booked the 41-year-old millionaire. Neighbors said Miss Williams, 36, suffered head and body injuries when downed by blows from her own shoe. She divorced Spreckles last year on grounds of physical abuse, but had passed an apartment here to be near her children, Joan and Adolph III, who are staying with their father.

TV To Air Arrival Of POWs Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Arrival here Sunday of the first ship carrying freed American prisoners of war from Korea will be telecast.

A one-hour telecast from the Ft. Mason pier will be relayed over the NBC national network starting at 11 a. m. EST. The Army plans to give the 328 repatriates the warmest welcome possible. The Walker also is returning 1,815 Marine, 456 Army, 91 Navy and 37 Air Force veterans.

Experts Pondering Future In U.S.-Soviet H-Bomb Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is following closely in the path of the United States, if not actually catching up, in the race for mastery of atomic weapons.

It may some day overtake this country in the number of stockpiled weapons, but the point is relatively unimportant, in the opinion of many experts.

For the time will come, these authorities believe, when the Soviet Union will have at its disposal enough bombs to pose an extremely dangerous threat to American security, regardless of how many bombs the U. S. possesses.

Officials here say the measure

Lausche Taps Trio For Road Study Group

COLUMBUS (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche today named a new state highway construction council to build modern arterial roads throughout Ohio.

They are: Wilbur M. Cotton, director of community relations with National Cash Register Co., Dayton; Clingan Jackson, political editor for the Youngstown Vindicator and former state senator; and Jesse E. VanFossen, Croton, manager and secretary of the Ohio Hybrid Seed Corn Products.

The 100th General Assembly created the council to supervise construction of inter-urban highways from new taxes on trucks and gasoline. The Senate refused to confirm three previous appointees on final adjournment day Aug. 7. That made new appointments necessary.

The Republican-controlled legislature created the council as a key unit in a multi-million dollar highway construction program. The council will classify roads, fix priorities and release funds.

Money under council control will come from a penny-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes and an axle-mile tax on cargo trucks. The levy will apply to trucks with three or more axles according to the miles the vehicles travel.

Statute requires the council to meet within 30 days after appointment and name a chairman and secretary. The state highway director must present a highway classification plan before Oct. 1 for council review. The plan must include roads in the inter-state highway system. After approving a plan, the council and highway director will decide on construction priorities.

Grunewald Found Overcome By Gas

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — A man police identified as Henry Grunewald of Washington, D. C., was found overcome by gas fumes with a woman in an apartment today.

Police said papers in the man's wallet gave the address of Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald, who figured prominently in a congressional inquiry into influence peddling.

Police said Grunewald, 63, and Mrs. Ann Anderson, 46, were found overcome by gas fumes from two open jets of a kitchen stove, on which food had been cooking. Both were reported in good condition in Jersey City Medical Center today. The wife of "The Dutchman" was en route there to see the hospitalized man.

Top Reporter Dies

DENVER (AP) — Bert Andrews, chief of the New York Herald Tribune's Washington Bureau, died early here today. He was 52.

12 Yanks Listed As POW Escapees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today made public the names of 12 more Americans reported by the Communists to have escaped from enemy prison camps in the Far East.

The new list left 17 to be identified of the 147 said to have escaped but about whom the Reds have given no further information and whose actual fate is unknown to the U. S. authorities.

An Ohioan on the list is Pfc. Adelbert Blue, son of Mrs. Marcella Lewis, Dayton.

Ike Takes Whole Day For Fishing

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower put aside state problems entirely today for the first time since starting his Colorado vacation and arranged to fish a Colorado Rockies trout stream.

Up to now, the President has been combining business with pleasure each day—a round of conferences in the morning, with golf or trout fishing in the afternoon.

Today, the President decided on a full day of fishing in the north fork of the South Platte River.

Adlai May Give Report To Ike

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, home after a world tour of nearly six months, apparently will give President Eisenhower a report on his global tour.

The defeated Democratic nominee for President in 1952 was asked if he had been invited to consult with the President.

"Before I left, Stevenson said, 'he (Eisenhower) asked me to see him when I came home. Every American responds to his President's requests.'"

MARKETS

GRAIN FUTURES

CHICAGO (AP)—An early rally in wheat failed to hold on the Board of Trade today and prices fell back to new lows for the week. They still were several cents above last week's bottoms, however.

Rye sank with wheat, all contracts moving to new seasonal lows on renewal of liquidation which has taken a sharp cut off the value of this grain this week.

Other sections of the market did much better. Lard continued its spectacular upswing, soybeans maintained small gains and corn changes.

Wheat near noon was 1 3/4-2 1/4 lower, September $1.80, corn 1/4 lower, to 1 1/4 higher, September $1.48 1/4, oats 1/4-1/2 lower, September 72 1/2, rye 2 1/4-3/4 lower, September $1.04, soybeans 1/4-1/2 higher, September $2.44 1/2, and lard 5 to 60 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $15.40.

Tar Tank Truck Upsets On Curve

A tank trailer carrying a full load of road tar upset at about 9 a. m. Friday on the Dawson Pike, about two miles north of Williamsport.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the accident happened when the tank truck, owned by George VanCamp, was rounding a sharp curve heading west.

Forrest Johnson, 34, of Circleville Route 2, said he applied the air brakes going into the curve and when he let up the truck just seemed to flip over.

The truck rolled over onto its top, its load of tar gushing onto the road and into the ditch. Johnson was struck in the head by a large pipe wrench in the cab and was doused with tar, but otherwise escaped unhurt.

Radcliff said the truck cab was demolished in the crash and the tank trailer was badly bent up.

Speakman Says He Plans Reply To Chamber's Rap On Streets

City Service Director Dewey Speakman made it clear Friday he won't ignore a Chamber of Commerce protest against litter and debris on city streets.

A letter in which the city Chamber protested the dirty condition of city streets was read to City Council Tuesday night. The lawmakers voted to "accept and file" the communication.

Speakman said he intends to have something to say on the same subject before very long, but asked that his plans be withheld "until I'm ready to say a few things that should be said."

In reference to the letter made public in Council, Speakman said: "I have duly noted the letter from the Chamber, as brought to my attention by reading in City Council's meeting. I am very much aware of the situation to which the Chamber refers, and I myself will have an announcement on the matter in the near future."

CITY OFFICIALS privately have long contended that some of the downtown business houses have been negligent in keeping their premises clean and tidy. Some of the local merchants also have complained that other merchants in the vicinity allow litter to gather on their own sidewalks and let it blow along until it's in front of a neighbor's front door.

Attention also has been drawn to the condition of downtown sidewalks in locations where loading work is handled for the business establishments.

A superficial check of sidewalks near the corner of Court and Main streets Friday morning supported the claim that general litter is swept from some business places and allowed to remain on the sidewalk.

In front of several establishments, where the sidewalks were especially cluttered, the litter was composed of a wide variety of waste paper. In several cases, the litter in front of individual establishments had no obvious connection with products sold there.

While Speakman declined to elaborate on his statement, the inference was that he plans steps to crack down on violations against a city ordinance, not only in the business section but also in residential areas.

In reference to the latter, he told how, in some cases, a special street crew had to be called out at extra cost to the taxpayers because of large pieces of debris dumped into the street. Such pieces, he explained, often can't be allowed to wait until regular cleanup hours because of the danger they represent for traffic.

Assembly decisions to the North Korean and Peiping regimes "and report to the General Assembly as appropriate."

INDIAN Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon said it was purely procedural, but U. S. delegates thought they saw a gimmick in it. They said it would require careful study.

A member of the Indian delegation said privately that the resolution would give the Communist combatants, China and North Korea, a chance to comment on the U. N. decisions, and possibly to reject them. These two countries are not members of the U. N. and not taking part in the current discussions here.

Lodge has maintained that the Korean armistice agreement is "clear in its provisions that the 'two sides' of the Korean war should choose their own representatives. On this basis, Lodge opposed a Soviet proposal to invite Red China and North Korea to attend the Assembly debates.

British and Canadian sources said they favored the new Indian proposal as a wise procedural move. Both Britain and Canada are urging India's participation in the Korean peace parley.

Lodge previously had stated only that he would not vote for India, leaving open the question whether this meant a negative vote or the less-emphatic abstention. His statement of outright opposition last night was designed to attract wavering members to his side.

The United States has agreed to support a proposal recommending Russia's participation in the conference provided the two Communist combatants want her. Adoption of this proposal is assured, but Russia has not yet indicated whether she would attend on the basis of the resolution.

Woman Injured In 2-Car Crash

A Circleville woman suffered back injuries Thursday afternoon in a minor two-car crash at the intersection of Court and Main Sts.

Officer Charles Smith said the crash happened at about 4:55 p. m. Thursday when an auto operated north on Court St. by Marvane Turner, 43, of 121 W. Union St. turned left into the path of a car operated south by Lewis McClarren Jr., 23, of 357 Town St.

Mary Brown, 39, passenger in the McClarren car, complained of back injuries. Marvane Turner was fined $10 and costs Friday before the court of Mayor Ed Amey for failing to yield the right of way.

The body will be brought from Springfield on Saturday.

3 Men Pass Police Exam

All three men who participated in a city police civil service examination earlier this week received passing grades.

Vernon Hawkes of the city civil service commission also said two of the three men who took a test for apprentice operators at the city sewage plant earned passing marks, while the one applicant for the maintenance and distribution job with the water department failed his test.

Earning passing grades in the police exam were Carl E. Thompson of 353 Barnes Ave.; Paul E. Speakman of Circleville Route 3; and Russell E. Lutz of 551 E. Mound St.

Thompson formerly was a member of the city police force, but resigned to take a post with the state conservation department. He later quit that post to work in Columbus.

Earning passing marks in the apprentice operator test for the sewage department were Donald G. Wolf of 150 E. Mill St. and Ralph H. Pritchard of 222 Town St.

An appeal was circulated Friday in an effort to recover a wallet lost on W. Main St. in Circleville sometime Thursday by Charlie Harrison, a cripple. The wallet was said to have contained more than $20 when it disappeared.

Long Distance Lines Installed

Long distance service through the Circleville office of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. has been improved an estimated 27 per cent.

Ed Jury, manager of the local office, said four new Circleville-Columbus long distance lines have been hooked up and are in operation now.

Addition of the new lines bring to 19 the number of long distance wires connecting Circleville to the capital city. The installation is expected to be fully adequate to meet the local needs.

Jury said practically all long distance calls from here, and from Ashville, Laurelville and Williamsport exchanges, are routed through Columbus.

Young Shah Returning To Iranian Throne

deh's armed forces foiled the attempt of palace guards to enforce a royal decree naming Maj. Gen. Fazollah Zahedi premier.

Fleeing to Iraq in his own plane, the Shah and his wife went on to Rome Monday by British airliner. He dashed homeward almost as hurriedly after Iran's masses and its army rallied to Zahedi and their ruler's standard and drove Mossadegh from his heavily-fortified home Wednesday. Three hundred or more died in the fighting.

The weepy-eyed old premier, who drove the British out of his nation's vast oilfields and then tried so hard to clip his ruler's power, surrendered yesterday to Zahedi at his headquarters in the Central Tehran Officers Club. Weak and limping, he still had on his habitual pink pajamas.

His future was uncertain. Zahedi, in a "give yourself up" broadcast 12 hours earlier, had said, "we will wait for the nation to say what should be done with him."

Disagreement Over $490 Mower Adds Fuel To Park Board Row

A power lawn mower which cost $490 was driven Friday into the center of the controversy over whether the City Park Board's operations need a complete overhaul.

Mayor Ed Amey, a member of the board, said he was told to go ahead and buy the mower early this year. A member of the board, however, said the Mayor purchased the equipment without the knowledge of Chairman Bill Cook and at least one other member of the group.

Amey said, as he recalls, both Bob Colville and Cook were present at the meeting in the Ted Lewis Park shelter house when it was decided to buy the lawn mower.

"I remember it was an idea that was well discussed," the Mayor said, "because they even told me what kind they wanted me to buy—specifying what kind of blades they wanted on it."

Adding fire to the difference in views over the purchase was the claim that the new mower is not the type needed for the park, and that it is now setting idle while the old mower is being used to cut the grass. The new mower, it is claimed, is not designed to operate well except on level lawn.

HOWEVER, City Service Director Dewey Speakman said he saw the new mower being used in the park. Speakman is not a member of adviser, Ali Shayaneg, and two former cabinet members surrendered with him. There was no word of Mossadegh's chief henchman, fiery former Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi. Earlier reports, never confirmed, said the mob tore him to pieces Wednesday.

Mossadegh and his three associates were held in rooms on the top floor of the Tehran officers club. Tanks and troops guarded the building.

Nellie Fox, second baseman with the Chicago White Sox, was born on Mas Day, 1927, in St. Thomas, Pa.

Home-Building Boom Is Seen As Continuing

Highly Active Stork Expected To Increase Number Of Fat Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven fat years for home builders have seen about eight million housing units added to the nation's total. Some in the real estate building are now openly talking of slower days to come.

But others refuse to believe that the seven fat years, since the big boom started in 1947 will be followed by seven lean—as in the biblical tale of Joseph in Egypt. They say that around 700,000 new homes will be needed each year to take care of new family formations. That perhaps another 300,000 will be needed to replace old houses beyond renovation. If the mortgage market holds up, the next few years shouldn't be too lean.

The highly active stork is the home builder's best friend. The Builders notes today that the population of the United States has just rounded out the 160 million figure. Next month it expects the eight millionth new house to be started. That will give the nation some 50 million housing units, or about one for each three persons. Back in 1940 the nation's 131 million persons were housed in 35 million units, or almost 4 to a unit.

And then more than half were renters. Now more than half are owners—if you wink at the mortgages on some 10 million homes. The mortgage market may hold the key to which wins the race, in the next year or so, the home builders or the stork.

"Banks have become very tight when it comes to credits for builders," complains David Pickett, president of The Gotham Construction Corp. of New York. He fears a building recession the last quarter of this year and into next, if the money market doesn't ease. The market is tight because mortgages must compete with a big supply of government and private securities in getting money from investors. Total savings are catching up, however. Last year savings were officially placed at 12½ billion dollars. This year the mutual savings banks, savings and loan associations, commercial banks, and life insurance companies all report gains.

Personal savings not turned over to such institutions last year amounted to 37 per cent of total savings, according to George W. Warnecke, who heads a national mortgage investment firm bearing his name.

"Within this margin between actual personal savings and those given in trust to institutions lies the dormant capital available for real estate, stock and bond investment," Warnecke says. He, however, is one of those who looks for a decline in general home-building activity—although not in the areas, like atomic centers, where expansion is still the order of the day. And he thinks that for a time interest rates on mortgages are likely to go higher.

If a slump in home building should come, Warnecke points out that the traditional depression-proof investments in real estate are commercial store centers, well-established office buildings, and well-located modern apartment houses. And he adds the comforting thought that "all declines end."

Carl Furillo of the Dodgers is having his best season in the majors. Only time he went above .300 was in 1950 when he hit .305.

'Taxes' Talk Is Heard By Rotarians

Simon Noggle, former Circleville resident who had been connected with the internal revenue department in Columbus as chief of the income tax department, spoke before Circleville Rotary club Thursday noon on "Taxes."

With 20 years of experience in the field of income taxes to draw from, Noggle related the history of taxes in the United States, the first tax being the stamp tax, then taxes on imports and whiskey.

Income tax was first collected during the Civil War and this law later was declared unconstitutional, he said. The present income tax was passed by Congress in 1913, and many amendments have been made since the original law was passed.

The present income tax, as amended, is interpreted separately by many people who are employed in the 64 collection districts in the United States, Noggle said, which creates some confusion in the interpretations made.

A PERSON can avoid paying taxes, he said, but no one can evade paying taxes. He related the experiences of some persons who have tried to evade paying income taxes, but were not successful.

"The only way to beat the income tax is not to have any income," Noggle said, "and the best way to do is to be honest with the government in making out your income tax and avoid penalties."

James Pollard, dean of the school of journalism of Ohio State University, was a guest at the meeting.

Marquis' Wife Asking Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—The Marchioness Romaine Milford-Haven stated a state Supreme Court action yesterday for "separation or divorce" from David Milford-Haven.

Her suit was placed on the calendar for a September trial. The marchioness, the former Mrs. Romaine Simpson, an American, and Milford-Haven were married Feb. 4, 1950, in Washington, D. C.

The marquis former escort of Princess Margaret, was best man at the wedding of British Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

County Farmers Warned Weevils Now Appearing In Stored Wheat

Grain weevils and grain moths are now starting to make their appearance in some Pickaway County stored wheat.

Larry Best, county extension agent, says most of the weevils and moths so far have been found in on-the-farm stored wheat which was not treated with pyrethrin at the time of storage. In most cases, the bins did not receive a five per cent DDT spray in advance of storage.

Stored wheat should be inspected at weekly intervals to determine if destructive insects are present, Best said. The presence of weevils, small grey moths, small dark beetles, small white worms with brown heads or wheat kernels with tiny holes in them should be cause for immediate treatment.

Use carbon bisulfide at the rate of three pounds for each 100 bushels of wheat. The bin should be made as tight as possible before applying the chemical.

LEVEL OFF the grain and use a sprinkling can to evenly distribute the bisulfide over the surface of the grain. If the bin is not tight a canvas or tarpaulin should then be placed over the top of the grain and left for at least 36 hours. The bin should be aired thoroughly.

He Offered Help (To Wrong Party)

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The purse-snatcher was too swift for Miss Olive Patrick's 50 years, but she didn't give up at first.

She chased the culprit after he grabbed her purse containing $6.25. He was gaining ground when she came upon a parked automobile with the driver at the wheel. "That man got my purse," she exclaimed.

"He did?" responded the driver. He started the car, caught up with the purse-snatcher, opened the door, and the purse-snatcher jumped in. They both drove off.

SEED TWO bushels per acre and the same depth as wheat. Make sure the seed has been treated with one of the organic mercury materials, such as Ceresan M of Panogen.

Barley weighs 48 pounds per bushel and is worth about 90 per cent that of corn for feeding. Eighty to 100 bushel corn land should produce 60 bushels of barley per acre.

"Barley may need grazing or clipping in the Spring to insure a meadow seeding stand that would compare to wheat or oats seedings," Best added. "Order barley seed early. The improved varieties probably will be in demand."

NEW YORK (AP)—Two scientists say bottled milk exposed to daylight for half an hour or more gets an off-taste "sunlight flavor" and loses vitamins.

The Christian's Prayer Life

CHRIST TEACHES DISCIPLES HOW TO PRAY

Scripture—Matthew 6:7-13; 1 Timothy 2:1-8; Romans 8:26-28.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

DO PEOPLE generally pray less than they did? That might be a subject for argument. In our troubled, warring world, do not more people turn to God for strength, and comfort to bear their griefs and bravely face their problems?

Fighter pilots and bomber crews pray, I am sure, when they go into battle, not knowing whether they will return safely or be shot down. Sailors in storms at sea, soldiers going into battle, the wounded on the battlefield, all turn their thoughts to God and pray for His help.

Possibly some of us at home do not pray as often as we should, or give little thought to our prayers, repeating the words without really thinking what they mean.

However, millions who have lost loved ones—wives whose husbands have been taken; husbands who have lost their wives; mothers and fathers whose children have died whether in battle, by accident or disease, turn to a very few minutes and play happily together again.

How can you repeat the Lord's prayer about being forgiven for your sins if you know in your heart you have not forgiven those who have offended you?

"Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." That may be our most earnest prayer. Temptations come to us all, but we can gain the strength to resist them, if we pray with our whole hearts.

In writing his first epistle to Timothy, Paul says: "I exhort therefore, that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty, for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour."

The comparatively few kings and queens left in the world, as well as the rulers of all lands, including our own, need our prayers, for there are many heavy

MEMORY VERSE

"After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."—Matthew 6:9-10.

their Father in heaven for help and comfort.

In the Sermon on the Mount Jesus told His disciples how to pray, "not as the heathen do; for they think they shall be heard for their much speaking."

"Be not ye therefore like unto them; for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of before ye ask Him."

"After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

What can each one of us do, we may ask ourselves and our children, to make this prayer come true? Not much? We can obey moral laws, love one another; be kind to everyone and considerate of their comfort.

We also can be helpful to those in sorrow; "rejoice with them that weep," as Paul said. This may not seem much, but it does help.

"Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." Many professing Christians fail in this. Haven't you known members of a church who were not on speaking terms with other members? How many husbands and wives are not speaking to each other because of some probably silly dispute?

Children get "mad" at each other, but adults may well take a lesson from their little children who forget their disagreements in problems to solve, and every person in authority, in our own land and all others needs great wisdom and foresight to cope with them.

To the Romans Paul wrote, "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose."

Do we doubt this? We all know people who allow their sorrows and disappointments to crush their spirits; but we also are acquainted with others who rise above almost overwhelming griefs and disasters to become finer characters—the world's saints.

Seek God in prayer and He will help you. Teach your children to take life's blows in stride, and to seek help from above, that they may grow into fine adults who will have courage and stamina to triumph over life's ills.

The younger members of a Sunday school class may be asked to talk about their earthly fathers, and what they talk about to them, what requests they make, and their closeness to them.

Then they can be led to see that God, our Father, is even nearer to us than our earthly fathers, and all our lives we can ask help from Him.

The older pupils should be reminded that Jesus and Paul "prayed always." If they and other saintly men felt the need of prayer, how much more do we in this day of repeated crises?

"A BETTER PLACE TO BUY"

Ted Lewis Theme Centered On Legion Corps Majorette

When Majorette Delores Elsea leads Circleville's American Legion drum and bugle corps into competition at the Ohio State Fair on Aug. 30, her uniform will carry a good luck charm in its pattern.

The majorette's new outfit gives a full nod of tribute to the silk-hat-and-dress-suit trademark of Ted Lewis, the famed maestro who has never passed up a chance to boost his hometown. And that won't be the only way in which the local unit will be trying to lure the good fortune that followed the city's native son.

Much of the music to be used by the corps when it aims at the top awards for 1953 will have the Ted Lewis background, with Miss Elsea to furnish the pantomime with a second timing. The corps' fanfare and finale this year will be "When My Baby Smiles At Me," and the concert number for the competition field is "Me And My Shadow"—tunes readily associated by the public everywhere with Circleville's great song and stage star.

Clifford Kerns arranged the music for the corps, and the majorette's uniform was especially designed for the Ted Lewis theme.

IN THE MANNER of Ted himself, Miss Elsea waves, flips and juggles the traditional tall hat while the familiar tunes ring out. And all of it will have to be with success or failure depending upon every musical note, every turn by the corps or its majorette—even on every flip of the famous hat.

Hawk-eyed and keen-eared judges always see and hear far more than the spectators when veterans come on the field to match their music and precision maneuvers. The all-important contest points can fade away on a quick, false movement that only the judges notice. On a musical note sounded deep in the ranks. On a bit of thread resting on a uniformed sleeve, or on the angle of a hat or the style of shoes and the manner in which the heels click.

Above all, the winning or losing points can rest heavily on the majorette out in front. All by herself, if the fates were to be so cruel, she could throw away a well-earned victory. Add to that the extra frills planned for Miss Elsea when Circleville marches on the field at the fair, and you have the plans for an all-out effort.

While the local unit attaches more prestige to laurels won in the annual Legion convention, prizes are much more substantial and the competition more rugged at the state festival. Circleville placed third again in the Legion test this year and the corps' trim majorette was officially declared the Legion's best in Ohio. More than ever now, the spotlight will be on Circleville during the state fair competition.

There were many who mumbled dark doubts when the local corps was the first to march into Legion competition last year with a girl handling the drum major duties. All over the state the false prophets predicted it would turn out to be a sad mistake—going overboard for the sake of public appeal and throwing away the many little points that figure in the competitive scoring.

Gay, easy and colorful as it may look to the spectators, the prophets warned, drum and bugle corps competition had long ago become a tough, high-keyed game that only men could handle correctly. An attractive girl out in front would only be disaster in pretty disguise, the peddlers of doom whispered, if she once dropped her baton, missed a step in the intricate maneuvers or failed to swing perfectly with the dead-serious, all-male team behind her.

"THAT CIRCLEVILLE majorette" had two strikes on her—and they were even bigger ones on the unit—when the great experiment was tried for the first time. Miss Elsea was strictly a gamble, and maybe at the time even she herself knew it. But if she did, it didn't bother her—and as a result Circleville's name is known wherever they talk of drum and bugle corps competition in this part of the country.

At Mansfield earlier this year, the announcer called upon the audience to roar out special applause for the Circleville majorette. A few other state outfits this year cautiously introduced majorettes into part of their efforts on the drill field, but Circleville's brunette performer is recognized as the leader of them all—the gamble that paid off.

Almost all the corps have their own majorettes, but with few exceptions they step aside gracefully when the men march out on the field to compete for the points in which high ability comes ahead of everything else. Few are willing to entrust any of their scoring to the girls you see out front in the parades.

Men In Advertising Business Must Cope With Many Taboos

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—It is now a matter of record that a man in the advertising business can get ulcers in Karachi or Johannesburg or Hong Kong just as easily as he does in New York.

Only the causes vary. In India, he has to avoid sex in at least 14 different languages. In Latin-America, he can pull out almost all the stops. In Hong Kong, he can't tell the Chinese to smoke a given cigarette without saying please. The Chinese are very sensitive about courtesy.

In Calcutta, he can't even tell the Hindus to smoke, please. The Hindi language just has no word for smoke. Over there, it comes out "drink a cigarette."

All this information I picked up this week while smoking a few drinks with foreign office managers of the Grant Advertising Agency. Besides talking over local problems, they played local commercial recordings for us.

You should have heard that shampoo commercial sung in the Tagalog and Cebuana dialects of the Philippines. Personally, I like it better that way.

An Indian toothpaste jingle was accompanied by a band that sounded like a callopie falling apart. Indian musicians, it was explained, will use eight different rhythms at once while they employ only a five-note scale.

Some things are the same the world over. A filmed TV commercial in Mexico City showed a pretty blonde stepping out to a diving board. Just as she was about to go in a sing-song voice said, "Un momento," and she was called back for her hair oil. An ad appearing in India, said Aubrey Mendieta of Bombay, can not show a girl kissing. Several merchants who tried it had their shop windows stoned by angry mobs. Hindus insist that sex is private.

No Indian woman can be pictured in anything but the most proper clothes. Decolletage is absolutely out. This, said Mendieta, adds to the advertiser's problems in view of the fact that 80 per cent of the shopping, even for

Only Circleville was willing to risk losing heavily in other departments in order to have Miss Elsea help out in "general effect"—general appearance of the unit on the field. She handles a full share of the unit's maneuvers in competition.

Circleville's experiment officially ended in success when judges at the Legion convention ranked Miss Elsea the state's top majorette. She's definitely a part of the picture, but still another girl will be vitally important when the corps takes the field at the Ohio State Fair.

She won't be seen by anyone, but above all the others she shuffles the cards and deals out the little breaks that show in the final score sheets. They call her the fate of the game, and all the world knows her as 'fickle and fancy-free.'

Circleville, already boasting the state's best majorette, will be out to win the favor of the girl who will look them all over and finally point to the winner. And for a lead-off serenade, the home corps will turn to that old tried and true reliable that carries the real Circleville tradition—with the Ted Lewis trimmings: "When My Baby Smiles At Me."

Downtown Subway OK'd In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga County's regional planning commission has approved a proposal for construction of a downtown subway loop which would cost an estimated $33½ million.

County commissioners, who asked for the planning group's study, now must decide whether to ask voters for bond issues to finance the project. The proposed subway would operate in downtown Cleveland, serving to link other public transportation facilities which enter the business section from several directions.

Ohio Employment Record Is Set

COLUMBUS (AP)—Records for employment, number of employers and size of payrolls in Ohio were shattered in 1952.

The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports some 83,000 employers paid $9,294,000 to an average of 2,396,000 workers. Only employers subject to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Law—those with three or more workers each—were included.

Only decreases were in the mining and quarrying industries, where employment and payrolls were down as result of a strike.

Carrier Slated For French Use

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The U. S. Navy carrier Belleau Wood is being taken out of mothballs at the San Francisco naval shipyard and will be loaned to the French government next month, the Navy said yesterday.

The flattop won 11 battle stars in Pacific war action. A part of the French crew to take over the ship already is here.

The 14,000-ton carrier is being loaned to the French under congressional authority, in furtherance of mutual defense pacts. The craft had a crew of 1,400 during its service in the Pacific in World War II.

Where Is Cominform Now? And Where Is Ana Pauker?

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUCHAREST (AP)—Where is the headquarters of the Cominform, the world-spanning, secret propaganda agency of the Kremlin that transmits Moscow's revolutionary orders?

Where is Ana Pauker? These are two of the current mysteries about Communist Romania to which American correspondents sought answers when invited here for the first time in five years.

The Cominform's powerful general staff is supposed to be in this Romanian capital. From Bucharest instructions allegedly go out to Red agents the world over.

We asked a Romanian official where it was. He looked shocked at our audacity and replied: "I really have no idea."

We questioned Western diplomats. One pointed out a heavily guarded ring of big residences in northern Bucharest. Entry to the area is stopped by armed militia. He said it might be there.

Another diplomat said no, that was probably the headquarters of the Central Committee of the Romanian Communist party. The Cominform, he said, is rumored to be quartered in the country club of a former oil company at Lake Snagov.

All the diplomats really knew was that the second meeting of the world's top Communist bosses met in the late King Carol's mountainside summer palace in Sinaia in 1949, and that certain secret meetings of the Cominform's staff may take place in the English-style country house of a former princess at Posada, in the Carpathian foothills.

Bushy-haired, Jewish-born Ana Pauker, once the world's most powerful woman Communist and Romania's foreign minister, used to live in a big house on Bucharest's fashionable Chaussee Kisselef. More than a year ago she was bounced as foreign minister and as a member of the Politburo. Although a lifelong friend of Stalin's, she was accused of "secret meetings" against the Red state.

A Romanian who claimed to know told us she was sent to the Kremlin after she was kicked out of the government. There were rumors she was arrested or had died.

After her dismissal, diplomats said, she traveled around Bucharest in a big car, visited government offices and was in the Romanian Parliament last December. She was seen on Bucharest's streets in May.

Asked specifically, Grigore Preoteasa, assistant foreign minister, told U. S. correspondents all the rumors were "fantasy and idle talk."

"She is in Bucharest and is no longer a member of the government." That was all he would say.

Thief Ignores $3200 In Gems

HOUSTON (AP)—A teenager who punched a 50-year-old woman in the stomach and escaped with her purse wanted cash instead of jewelry.

The purse, with three rings valued at $3,200, was found in a ditch. The youth had taken $33 in cash.

Mrs. Byrdine Harrison told police yesterday a teenager struck her and grabbed her purse while she was walking on a Houston street.

Jet Lab Ordered

CLEVELAND (AP)—Thompson Products, Inc., said today it has received Navy approval to build a jet engine testing laboratory near Painesville in Lake County. The Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics has allocated $1,286,000 for the job.

Foreign Spending Worries Senator

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Unless the situation changes and "some nations put their houses in order, I have voted for my last foreign aid bill," Senate Minority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said yesterday.

Johnson spoke here at a country club luncheon.

"We will have to find a stopping point on foreign spending before we bleed ourselves white," he said.

"If Chancellor Adenauer (of West Germany) goes under in September," Johnson warned, "we will have to rely largely upon ourselves to face our big enemy in the world—communism."

State Sales Tax Ahead Of 1952

COLUMBUS (AP)—State sales tax collections are running ahead of last year's rate.

State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy said receipts for the first 39 days of the 1953 fiscal year were $20,355,614.96. This is $4,229,355.44 more than receipts at the same time a year ago he said.

The state treasurer said receipts for the week ending Aug. 8 exceeded $3 million for the second consecutive time. He said this reflects an up-swing in sales volumes for 1953 which could set a record for a 12-month period if continued.

Lausche Inspects

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche yesterday inspected state schools for the deaf and blind to consider the advisability of converting them to state office buildings after new blind and deaf schools open here.

Aug. 18 Big Day For Chicagoan

CHICAGO (AP)—Aug. 18 is a red letter day for Mrs. Rosemary Klett, 23.

Mrs. Klett was married on Aug. 18, 1951, to Thomas Klett, 23. One year to the day later, Thomas Jr., was born. Last Tuesday Aug. 18 the second Klett son, Kevan, was born.

Mrs. Klett has received word that her husband was honorably discharged as a Marine lieutenant on Tuesday. He's coming home and will attend law school at the University of Notre Dame.

Families Heading Back To Homes

FORESTVILLE, Que. (AP)—More than 150 women and children evacuated last Sunday from the forest fire-threatened village of Ste. Therese headed home today.

The main blaze, which started Aug. 7 and charred 165 square miles of timberland, has made little progress the past day or two, woodsmen said. They would not give assurance that it was completely under control but said villages in the area did not appear to be in immediate danger.

BIZARRE FARM PLAN
SEN. ANDREW SCHOEPPEL of Kansas probably reflects majority thinking in Congress when he questions the "cost of production" farm plan of eager-beaver Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado as a replacement of the present program of loans and parity supports. The current farm law runs out next year and will be reenacted or supplanted by Congress.

In sketchy outline, the Thornton scheme provides that the government guarantee the farmer his average cost of production. If government purchases of surpluses are necessary—the guy seems to be something of a humorist—the food thus acquired would be funneled overseas.

Schoepfel asks for clarification. Such a program would create many new problems. There would scarcely be ground then for denying the demand of some labor union officials for a guaranteed annual wage. Or for denying a demand from business for a guaranteed annual profit. Or from property owners for a guaranteed annual income. And so on.

Most observers are convinced it will be difficult to get Congress to drop parity loans and surplus purchases, especially during an election year. Members judge farm sentiment to be for the present program. Consumers have no voice in the prices they must pay, and the law of supply and demand has been repealed.

Approval of wheat controls by wheat farmers in the recent referendum is regarded as having guaranteed passage of a bill to reenact the present subsidy system when it expires. Farmers have signified they are for it, and Congress will give them what they want.

CYCLE COMPLETED
SOVIET AND WESTERN nations are back at the old stall of talking about getting together for Big Power talks with little likelihood they will do so. In the latest cycle of thrust and parry, the West's overture was awfully loaded, the proposed agenda limited to German unity and the Austrian peace treaty, a move known to be unpalatable to the Reds. The Muscovites insist upon the inclusion of Red China. The prize in the sparring is the future of Germany and the outcome of Pro-Western Chancellor Adenauer's reelection bid next month. Both sides seek to assure unity-conscious Germans of their support, but each wants a reunited Germany on its own terms and in its own camp.

The stakes are high, but for different reasons neither the U. S. nor Russia desires to debate the issue at this time. Both believe time runs in their respective favor.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

The Korean War was fought to establish a principle, namely, that military aggression is not tolerable in the affairs of nations. The North Koreans regarded their combat as civil war and not as aggression; it is for this reason that they have taken the position that the United States invaded Korea.

That view could have been acceptable up to November, 1950, when Communist China intervened as an aggressor. That eliminated any possibility of regarding the conflict as a civil war.

The Communist Chinese aggression was war. They used the device which the Russians had employed in the Spanish Civil War, namely, that their huge armies, well-organized, admirably provisioned, were volunteers. Yet, the fact is that the North Koreans had been defeated by General MacArthur before the Chinese Communists came in. That defeat had been so complete that MacArthur expected the war to be over soon.

Today, the Chinese Communists are in possession of North Korea and nothing in the truce agreement requires them to leave that country. For this reason, it is possible to say that the United Nations lost the war, since aggression, instead of being punished, is rewarded.

In fact, the British and Canadians, accepting the Chinese Communists as victors, propose that they be given a seat in the United Nations. What greater reward could come to them for aggression?

The Political Conference was to have been made up of nations which had participated in the Korean War—16 of them on our side; two of them on the North Korean side. No provision was made for neutrals or secret co-belligerents to the present.

Soviet Russia was a secret co-belligerent, providing arms, planes, tanks and other supplies; maintaining a world-wide propaganda in favor of North Korea and against the United States; spreading widely, through its international Communist organizations, the lie that we employed germ warfare, and producing diversionary efforts in Europe and Asia designed to prevent a victorious war.

Furthermore, as should be known to the American and British specialists, the Soviet world is a unit in its relations with non-Communist countries. This "One World" group of nations is directed by the Kremlin. Therefore, Soviet Russia was a secret co-belligerent.

However, Soviet Russia demands a seat at the Political Conference as one of the United Nations members. While this was fought by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as historically incorrect, as immoral, since it rewards aggression, as damaging to the prestige of the United Nations, the British and Canadians have favored the Russian cause on the grounds that if Russia sat on the other side of the table, namely, among the Chinese and Korean Communists, it would be an admission that the Russians are belligerents. Well, what are they?

Present U. S. policy is to give the Red rulers more rope to hang themselves in dealing with rebellious East Germans. So both agree again to disagree, which is where German unity languished when Churchill brought the subject up in the first place.

THE JUNIPER TREE

By FAITH BALDWIN
CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
DURING the two weeks the shop was closed Karen came almost every day; twice Frank was with her, once to call, in the early evening and again one Sunday morning. She came, when alone, at any time, either mornings, leaving by noon, or for long afternoons.

Karen liked to talk and to listen. Gradually she learned a good deal about her. She had a deep regard for all living things, especially children and old people, for the hurt and unhappy. And for animals. "I've never been to a zoo but I've seen pictures. I couldn't stand seeing animals in cages. I've never wanted to visit the fox farms around here or to pass the place where they keep little bears chained, summers. I don't even like a circus!"

He found himself telling her about Em and her work. "That's wonderful," she said. "She must be such a good woman." "She's all of that," "Helping the children, that helps her," she said. "Yes, I suppose you wonder why I don't do something to help myself?" She nodded. He had talked to her about Tim. "Sometimes, Mr. Barton."

"I have tried. I do try." "Perhaps the way will come to you," she said. During this time he often dreamed of Tim, but these were pleasant dreams, no barriers between, no frustration or terror. Simply they were together somewhere. The background continually altered, it could be a workshop or the Daleway corridors or the river cottage. Sometimes he dreamed of sounds: Tim's feet on the stairs, his voice and laughter, the sound of oars in quiet water.

Karen came one day, and he did not go from camp to greet her. She went to the point and set up the case, reflecting that he was out on the river or in the village. She sat for a time idle in the sun. She had greatly liked the past days, looked forward to coming here; she had never met a nicer man than David Barton. He was fun to be with, friendly and understanding. And her heart was heavy for him because of his unhappiness. He made you think, too; sometimes they argued, often disagreed. He had a wider outlook than any she had hitherto encountered, more of a horizon. She respected his judgment. He was old enough to be her father, although not sold as her father would have been.

He had been living a life that she had never missed having a father until now. Not that she did not like her stepfather, but she'd been a grown girl when he and her mother married. She thought: Tim had been fortunate. She thought a good deal about Tim. He was real and clear to her. She wished that she could help his father. Looking toward camp, she saw a shadow move across the window. Leaving her things, she went to the back door to knock and call: "Are you there, Mr. Barton?" "Yes. Come in."

She went in, saying: "I thought you weren't home. What's the matter, are you sick?" He was lying on a couch, where the sun didn't fall, and looked drawn and ill. For the first time since she had known him, he looked his age and more. "It's just a headache, Karen, a form of migraine. I'm subject to it. I'll be all right. I got up a moment ago and took a powerful pill. I didn't look out the window and had no idea you were here." "My mother used to have dreadful headaches. Does ice help?" "Sometimes." She went to the shed, found a small piece of ice and took it to the sink. "Do you have an ice cap?" He told her where it was. She came back, the ice cap in a towel, and gave it to him. "Have you had anything to eat?" she asked. "No. When I woke I couldn't get up, and when I did, well, it was too much effort—besides, I didn't want anything." "Couldn't you manage tea and dry toast? I'll make them. Please let me?" He said, smiling: "I have no choice," and lay still, content to hear her moving quietly about and presently the singing kettle. When toast and tea were ready, she asked: "Can you sit up?" He did so, dizzily, but his headache was better. Karen made him comfortable against pillows and, as he ate and drank, sat beside him, her hands folded. "How about you, Karen?" he asked tardily. "I'll be going home soon," she said. "It's early still. Is the tea all right?" "Fine. Thanks to you and the pill I feel almost human. Did I tell you my brother-in-law's a good doctor? Karen, you'd make an excellent nurse." "I'd like to be a nurse, but it's a little late, and besides," she explained, without resentment, "it's doubtful that a hospital would accept me for training. But Aunt Mame's taught me quite a lot." "Maybe it's as well you didn't attempt to train; it's a rugged life."

Treating Skin Pigmentations

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THOUGH it is primarily a cosmetic problem, degree of pigmentation of one's skin may have a profound effect on the emotions, and perhaps even affect the social aspects of a person's life.

One of the most difficult problems faced by men and women is over- or under-pigmentation of their skin that may follow certain diseases. When this abnormal pigmentation occurs on the exposed portions of the hands, legs, or face, its effect may be particularly painful emotionally.

Some Causes

A substance in the skin known as melanin determines the amount of coloration present. Diseases of the adrenal glands or Addison's disease may cause extreme pigmentation of the body. Some perfume can bring over-pigmentation on the parts of the body where it has been applied. In certain diseases such as vitiligo, there is lack of pigmentation and white spots appear on the skin. Pregnancy may cause over-coloration and darkening of the skin.

Some persons have difficulty with this condition when the skin is exposed to sunlight. Most persons ignore freckles; however, some women and men are cosmetically ashamed of them.

Until recently, little results have been obtained in treating over-pigmentation of the skin.

Ammoniated mercury and hypochlorite bleaches were used frequently without great success.

In the past few years, however, a prepared and purified ointment has finally been perfected which can be prescribed by the physician. It is a preparation of monobenzy ether of hydroquinone, and has been used on patients showing over-pigmentation from various causes.

A Few Became Allergic

Of the eighty-four patients on which this ointment was tried, sixty-four showed good improvement after two to six months. However, a few patients became allergic to it and had to discontinue the treatment, even though the ointment was helping their pigmentation condition.

The ointment was especially effective in cases of severe freckling. Of course, mild or moderate freckling should not be treated, as these freckles usually disappear by themselves during the winter months.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. W.: Our house has a disagreeable odor coming from one of the walls. The family who lived in this house before us kept cats in the closet. Is there any way we can rid the house of this odor?

Answer: If you apply oil of juniper lightly to the wall where the odor is coming from, it should disappear.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — The transfer of the able and likeable Walter Williams from Commerce to the White House staff on the eve of President Eisenhower's departure for his Denver vacation reflects Ike's awareness of congressional and party Republicans' dissatisfaction with his handling of bread-and-butter political chores. Specifically, it implies a recognition of mounting criticism of Sherman Adams, liaison man with Capitol Hill and the GOP.

Williams is as gracious, as cooperative and as understanding as the Yankee from New Hampshire is aloof and Olympian. A successful businessman, he once headed the Committee for Economic Development, a group of industrialists who advocate the mildly liberal policies which Eisenhower privately favors but does not always advocate as President.

NOT HAPPY—In view of his connections with business and industry, it had been expected that Williams would rate the job as secretary of commerce. But when politics required the appointment of Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, an Adams crony and co-worker in the New England organization's affairs, Williams became under secretary. It is understood that he has not been too happy as second to the wealthy Bay Stater, who has made several major blunders in his six months in Washington.

Ike, however, cannot forget his political debts to Weeks and Adams. They were largely responsible for his defeat of the late Senator Taft in the key New Hampshire primary early in 1952. Had Eisenhower been rebuffed in that first test in the East, the cradle of his political birth, he might not have been nominated in Chicago. But now, both are handicaps to him.

ASSIGNMENT—Williams also headed the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower in the convention struggle and the campaign. It was this organization which mobilized elements of the electorate that liked Ike, but were not too keen for his Republican associates. They testified to the President's vote-getting popularity.

Thus, Williams now has two assignments. He will try to improve relations with the politicians and Republican members of Congress in everyday dealings with them. Adams has rubbed their sensitive fur the wrong way.

He will also set to work to revive the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower in anticipation of the 1954 congressional campaign. Unless they can be persuaded to turn out and vote for Republican legislative candidates for Ike's sake, he may be confronted with a hostile Congress in the last two years of his first term. That could be disastrous.

NO BUDGING—Many Republican leaders had hoped that Gov. Hugh Gregg of New Hampshire would appoint Adams to the Senate vacancy created by the death of Charles W. Tobey, thus removing the controversial figure from the White House scene in a painless operation. Instead, he named Robert W. Upton, a 69-year-old lawyer, who preferred Taft to Eisenhower as the 1952 nominee.

Gregg also creased Republican brows by explaining that, despite suggestions he take Tobey's place, he did not feel he should abdicate the governorship "at this time." The quoted qualification suggests that he may make the senatorial attempt next fall, and that Upton is only a one-year seat warmer.

If Gregg entertains these ambitions, and it is assumed here that he does, another scheme for removing Adams from his present post near the throne would be upset.

Huge Ballot Facing Ohioans In November

Nine Constitution Changes To Be Decided By Buckeye Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the ballots for Ohioans to mark at the Nov. 3 election is blanket-sized. It measures 15 by 25 inches and contains nine proposed changes in the state constitution. Most of the proposals deal with obsolete or inconsistent sections.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown prescribed the ballots to county election boards for printing. He said their size was necessary because the 100th General Assembly required considerable explanation printed on some of the questions. Each question provides spaces for yes or no X marks by voters. A favorable majority vote by those marking each question is required for passage.

Similar ballots for precincts using voting machines also were prescribed.

Two controversial questions deal with a 500 million dollar highway bond issue and a state board of education.

Proceeds from the bond issue would be used solely for arterial highways and their urban extensions. Only 125 million dollars worth of bonds could be issued annually and none after March 31, 1962. Road revenues already in effect would retire the bonds by 1972. The proposed state board of education would select a state superintendent of education, now appointed by the governor.

Another question offered by the legislature will not go on ballots until November, 1954. It calls for a decision on four-year terms for elective state officials and legislators.

Issues in the order of their ballots appearance call for:

1. A 500 million dollar highway bond issue.
2. A state board of education to pick a state school superintendent.
3. Removal of the word "white" from the article providing that "all white male citizens . . . being 18 years of age and under the age of 45 years, shall be enrolled in the militia."
4. Repeal of the section, no longer used calling for election of militia officers by persons subject to military duty.
5. Elimination of a section empowering the legislature to pick U.S. senators that was changed by amendment but never stricken from the state constitution.
6. Removal of an outmoded section preventing appointment of women to public positions unless those positions involved "the interests or care of women or children or both."
7. Repeal of an 1851 provision creating a commission to revise proceedings of state courts that the legislature later approved.
8. Cancellation of a section applying only to office holders Nov. 7, 1905.
9. Repeal of the section authorizing World War I bonus payments long since made.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Non de plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

It's about time we did something about this bypass. No one can say "It's not my problem." It is every one's problem. Let's do something before the state lets us "do with what we got," which would be an unhappy situation for all of us.

Here are my reasons for favoring a bypass:

People whose business it is to build roads and work out traffic problems, whose knowledge of the situation is far superior to mine, favor the by-pass. These people base their opinion solely on the lives and safety of their fellow man—not on dollars and cents. If this be the case why don't they go ahead, regardless of our opinion? Simply because this is a democracy. They don't want to cram anything down our throats.

The National Chamber of Commerce and such service clubs as Kiwanis and Rotary often publish articles favoring a bypass for all cities located on a busy highway. Theirs is an impartial opinion based on fact and research. They are interested in what will help the town as a whole, not the "what will I get out of it" view.

My third reason is the much discussed subject that the position of the schools necessitates the crossing of the highway by many children. From the continuous disregard of the safety signs by the motorist, it would seem that few people are interested in our children's safety.

Traffic on 23 has become unbelievably heavy. This trend will continue until every one will be complaining of the "thundering horde." Normal Winter traffic is now what a very few years back was heavy Summer traffic. Let's look ahead, the bypass will be a must in a few years. Why not help keep taxes down by doing it now. The failure to bypass a city today is like retaining a two-

Red Newspaper Brings Volunteers

SAN ANSELMO, Calif. (AP)—Pravda won't like this but the Moscow newspaper gave Mrs. Carmel Booth an assist in her appeal for civil defense volunteers.

Playing Cowboy Costs Lad's Life

COLUMBUS (AP)—David Herman Perry, 9-year-old Columbus polo victim who enjoyed playing cowboy, was killed yesterday when he accidentally hanged himself from a garage rafter.

Police said he probably fell off an overturned bushel basket while playing with a nylon clothesline noose around his neck.

lane bridge on a four-lane highway.

My fifth reason is probably fantastic to most of you. You will say "it can't happen here." Sincerely I hope not. If an emergency should arise, whether by an act of God or an attack upon our country (we are in a critical area and Route 23 is a military highway), our highways would be congested with not only our own people, but people from other cities. Some highways would be closed to civilian use. Many in the East already have been labeled as closed to civilian traffic if an emergency arises. The bypass would do much to carry the overflow. Silly, impractical thinking? Maybe.

Finally, I feel that Circleville is growing up, becoming mature. Petty differences and financial interests should not stand in the way of what is right and best for the town.

I am asking that my name be withheld from this letter, not because I am timid about signing it but because I do not wish the signature to influence the reader in any way.

A Reader.

Not All Women Gold-Diggers, Veteran Lady Lawyer Says

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Most women are not gold-diggers, says Tiera Farrow, a practicing lawyer in Kansas City, Mo., for 50 years.

Miss Farrow, pink-cheeked and white-haired, has handled thousands of divorce cases in her long career in the law. Her verdict:

"Most women don't want alimony these days, unless there are children to be supported. And even then many prefer to take over the responsibility of raising their offspring alone. Modern women are self-sufficient, able to stand on their own feet, and most of them get married or unmarried for love and not for money."

This pioneer female lawyer whose book "Lawyer in Petticoats" will be published next month, started her practice in 1903, when there were only 200 women lawyers in the country. Today there are 4,000. In those days, she says, judges were alarmed and spectators shocked to see a woman take her place in the lawyers' enclosure of a courtroom. She recalls:

"All lawyers rely heavily on precedent. But when I took my first case, I didn't have any precedent. I had never seen another woman lawyer; I didn't know whether I should take my hat off in the courtroom, or where I should sit, or anything. So I just had to figure it out or myself."

Soon, she says, she was able to overcome the prejudice against "lawyers in skirts" and prove that in certain cases a woman can be more effective than a man. One of these is in representing the wife in a divorce case. Says she:

"A woman just naturally understands the problems of another woman better than a man does, and is more sympathetic. Also, she's willing to let her client talk—and women love to talk about their troubles, you know. A man lawyer is likely to get impatient when his client rambles on and on, but a woman will listen and sympathize."

Miss Farrow believes women lawyers are likely to be less quarrelsome in court than men, and to show more respect for the judge.

Oil Well Sunk To 20,521 Feet

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—The world's deepest oil well is in California now.

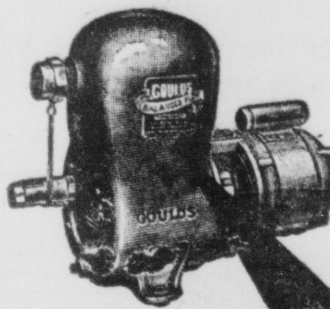

Ohio Oil Company's exploratory hole in the Paloma field, 17 miles southeast of here, reached a depth exceeding the previous mark of 20,521 feet, established four years ago by the Superior Oil Co. in Sublette County, Wyoming.

A spokesman indicated the well is in lower Miocene era formation and probably will be deepened to reach Eocene sands, where geologists believe new oil bearing sands will be discovered. The well is known as KCLA 27-4.

Drilling began Oct. 23, 1951, and so far approximately 1 1/2 million dollars has been invested.

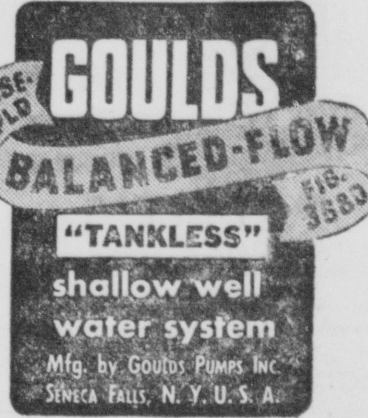

Her advice to girls who want to go into the law:

"Go to it—you'll have a lot of fun and not much money. You'll have to be twice as good and work twice as hard as a man to succeed. But if you work hard enough, you'll make the grade."

Here's the pump that offers real "city" water service—beyond the reach of city water mains. It's the amazing tankless unit that's a complete self-contained water system—no "extras" to buy. Provides really fresh running water, in just the quantity you need, no matter how many outlets are in use at the same time—within pump capacity, of course. Only one moving part . . . corrosion resistant . . . self priming . . . compact . . . quiet . . . low in cost, lower in upkeep. See it, before you buy.

You're "sitting pretty" behind the wheel Take this Bel Air model. First thing you'll notice is the rich-looking upholstery and appointments and roomy, comfortable seats. Just turn the ignition key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You get more power on less gas Here's all the power and performance you could ever ask for. And along with it comes the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history! That's because of Chevrolet's two great high-compression engines.

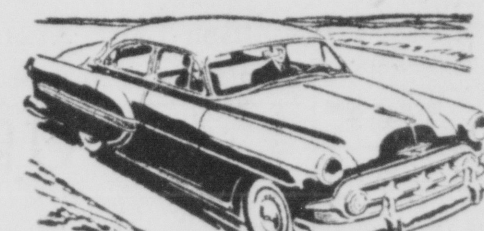

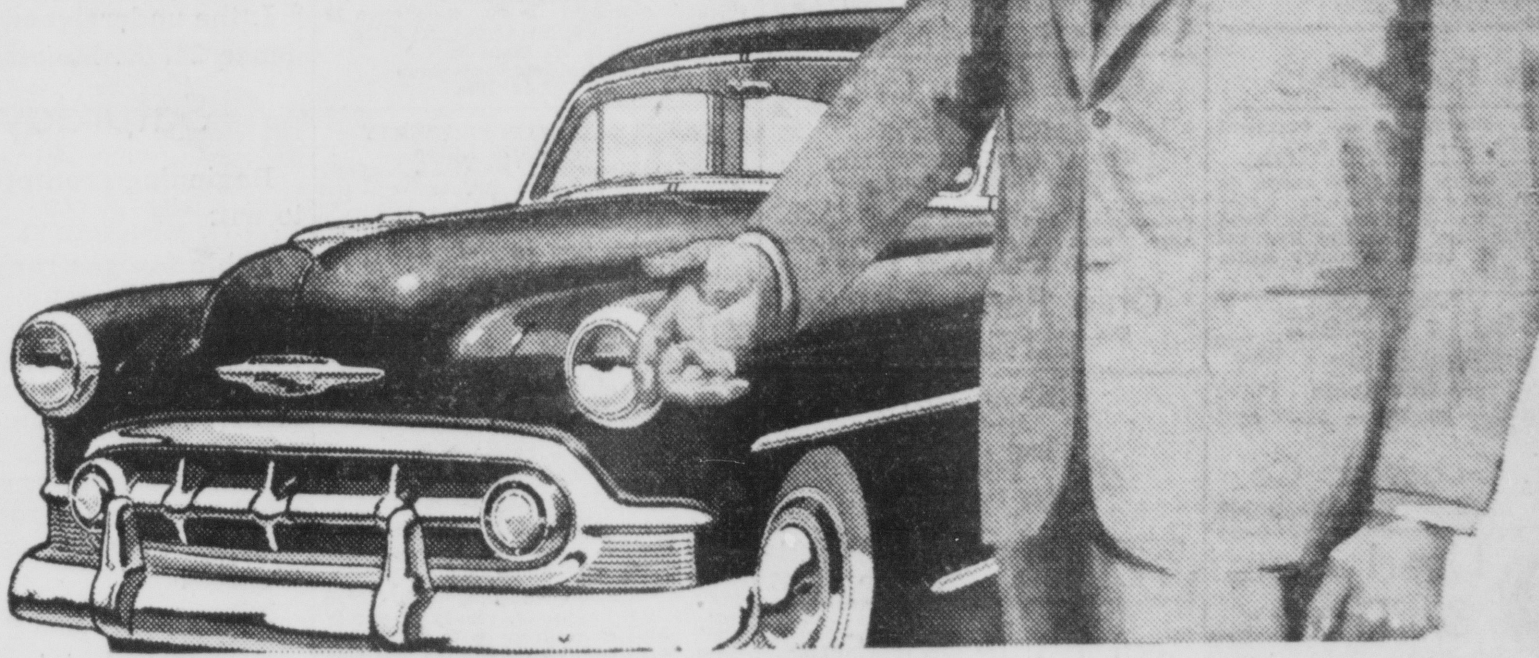

You can see all around You look out and down at the road through a wide, curved, one-piece windshield. The panoramic rear window and big side windows provide a clear view in all directions.

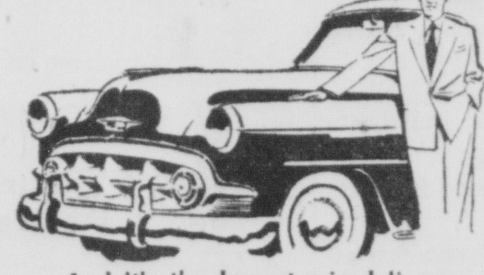

Biggest brakes for smoother, easier stops An easy nudge on the brake pedal brings smooth, positive response—right now! Chevrolet brakes are the largest in the low-price field—extra large for extra stopping power.

I was ahead in every way after this demonstration!

I figured on paying about $200 more for a new car . . . until I discovered all that Chevrolet offered me.

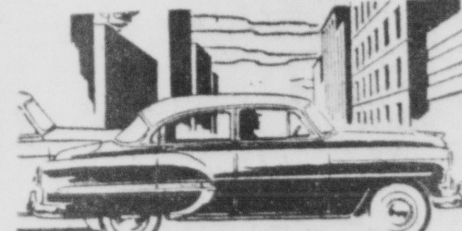

It's heavier for better roadability You're in for a pleasant surprise at the smooth, steady ride. One reason is that, model for model, Chevrolet will weigh up to 200 pounds more than other low-priced cars.

And it's the lowest-priced line A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers more in the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide* Finer performance on less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide. There's no more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

Even Power Steering, if you want it You ought to try Power Steering to see how easy driving can be. You can spin the wheel with one finger! It's optional, of course, at extra cost, and available on all models.

Let us demonstrate all the advantages of buying a Chevrolet now!

Hatters To Meet Texaco Friday Night For 1953 District Title

Circleville's Top Hat softball team will meet Chillicothe Texacos in a battle at 8:30 p. m. Friday in Greenfield for the 1953 district softball tournament championship.

Top Hat moved into position to bid for the tourney title Thursday night by scoring a 5-1 victory over the Texaco crew.

Hatter swatters earlier this week won the loser's bracket in the tourney, while Texaco had gone through the tourney undefeated until Thursday night to take winner's bracket honors.

By virtue of the double elimination setup, each team must be beaten twice to be eliminated. Both the Hatters and Texaco have one defeat now, the next match to determine the championship.

IN THURSDAY'S encounter, Stillman Morrison started for the Hatters and blanked the Texaco crew for the first two frames. He was relieved in the fourth by Ken Reid after he gave up a hit, the batter advancing to second on a wild pitch and scoring on a single to give the Texaco team a one-run edge.

Reid worked the next four innings without giving up any runs, and allowed only one more base hit.

Top Hat, blanked for the first three frames, deadlocked the score at 1-1 in the fourth when Lloyd Minor punched out a two-bagger and scored on a single by Bob Tracey.

A four-run spree in the sixth gave the Top Hat aggregation its winning margin.

Reid lashed out a single in the inning, advancing to second on a wild pitch and taking third on a fly ball.

With two men out then, Tracey beat out an infield hit to score Reid with the tie-breaking run, Harold Gulick rapped out a two-bagger to score Tracey, Carl Gulick singled and reached second on the throw-in which held Harold Gulick to third, and Harold Gulick and Carl Gulick scored the last two runs on a single by Bob Moon.

Winner of Friday's "sudden death" contest between the Hatters and Texaco will participate in the state softball tournament next week in Hamilton.

Line score of Thursday's victory for the Top Hat crew follows:

Texaco 001 000 0 — 1 4 0
Top Hat 000 104 x — 5 6 0

3 Marks Set
At Illinois
Sulky Meet

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois futurities for both 2 and 3-year-old trotters and pacers headline the final day of harness racing at the Illinois State Fair today.

Nine have been named in the 2-year-old trot, which carries a purse of $3,630. Eleven 2-year-old pacers tangle in that division while both stakes for 3-year-olds have drawn nine.

Three season's records, and two other miles in the two minute circle were recorded on yesterday's program.

Season's records were made in the Greyhound 2-year-old trot, when Newport was timed in 2:02.35, year's fastest for 2-year-old trotters. Parker Byrd, owned by T. W. Droege of Chicago, took the first elimination heat of the Little Pat in 2:01, then had to settle for second money when Castleton Farms Queen Adios won the second elimination in 2:05 and copped the final in 2:02.25.

Third season's mark went to Marel Way from Hayes Farm Acres of Duquoin, Ill., who won the first heat of the Review Pace in 1:59.15, best time of the year for a 3-year-old pacer.

Irish Hal, entry of K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex., won the free-for-all pace with a second heat in 1:59.35 after taking the first in two minutes even.

After winning his mile in 1:59.15, Marvel Way faded badly in the next two, which went to another Castleton speedster, Dutch Dandy, each in 2:00.3.

However, the combined times of Dutch Dandy and Marvel Way set a world's record for three heats by 3-year-olds. The total was 6:00.25. The previous three heat record for 3-year-olds was 6:02, set by Thunderclap and Meadow Rice at Sedalia, Mo., last year.

Joe Sulaitis, one of the few men in pro football lacking college experience, will soon start his 10th season with the New York Giants.

Third Place Races Drawing Chief Interest

First Two Positions In Each Loop Appear To Be Sewed Up Now

By The Associated Press

The race for final positions in the major league standings appears to be all over in both circuits except to find out who's going to finish third.

Although there are still five weeks to play it's mostly just a question of waiting for the World Series—for Brooklyn and the New York Yankees—and for next year.

The third place races, however, are another story. Cleveland holds third in the American League by only half a game over the Boston Red Sox. St. Louis has a game edge on Philadelphia in the National.

To an individual player it is worth about twice as much to be a member of a third place finisher instead of with a fourth place club. The players on the first four clubs share in World Series receipts.

Except for the third place battles at least six games separate the clubs in their present positions in the National League. Only seven games divide the last place St. Louis Browns from the sixth place Athletics in the American League, with Detroit sandwiched in between. But none of these clubs has shown any indication that it will improve greatly or collapse between now and the end of the season.

The league leading Dodgers and Yankees each have a nine game edge. Brooklyn has 36 games to play, New York 35.

In yesterday's curtailed activity the Dodgers thumped the New York Giants 10-0; St. Louis defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-3 and Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 5-2 in the National League. The Yankees whipped Washington 7-0 and Cleveland bounced Detroit 13-7 in the American.

Thiel Gives Toledo Win Over Indians

By The Associated Press

Bert Thiel, making his first start in a month for Toledo, pitched and batted the Sox to a 7-2 victory over Indianapolis last night.

The win continued Toledo's game-and-a-half edge on the runner-up Louisville Colonels, who beat Kansas City, 2-0.

In other games, St. Paul downed Minneapolis, 4-1, and Charleston defeated Columbus, 5-4.

Thiel socked a three-run double and Bill Queen smacked a three-run homer to account for all but one of Toledo's runs.

U. S. Atomic Chief Issues Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission says "it is idle to assume that it is beyond the capabilities of our potential enemies to develop atomic weapons with a tremendously destructive capacity."

"It is also a fallacy," he said, "to assume that a stockpile of atomic weapons in our hands is in itself any longer a complete deterrent to aggressive action."

Strauss made the statements in a letter to Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) dated Aug. 19 and evidently written a few hours before Moscow announced that a type of hydrogen bomb had been exploded in a Soviet experiment.

The AEC chairman shortly thereafter issued a statement confirming that U. S. monitors had detected an atomic explosion in the Soviet, on Aug. 12, and that it included "thermonuclear" reactions, the scientific name for the hydrogen fusion process.

Wiley, Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, had written Strauss to ask his views on vulnerability of this country to possible atomic attack, saying many people live in a "fool's paradise" believing that possession of more atomic bombs would prevent an enemy attack.

"The destructiveness of atomic weapons is such that no one with any feeling of responsibility for the nation's welfare and his own and his family's safety can afford to dismiss, or ignore, or minimize the impact," Strauss replied.

Strauss said he agreed with Wiley that "the public generally should know everything that can be revealed that does not compromise military information and that concerns the nature and threat of atomic warfare." He added: "The public should also have the most thorough familiarity with civilian defense requirements, and the apathy which has characterized this area in past years must be dispelled."

The letter, made public today by Wiley, came as members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee were assembling for a closed session to discuss "current events."

Obviously, the latest Soviet atomic development was the big item on the agenda. Asked to brief committee members were officials of Strauss' commission and of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It seemed doubtful that there would be much elaboration, for the public, on Strauss' statement of early yesterday, which said the United States had produced in 1951 and 1952 atomic tests the same sort of reaction detected in the Aug. 12 Soviet blast.

3 Scandinavian Countries OK India Peace Talk Role

Young Shah Returning To Iranian Throne

Old Mossadegh Held Under Guard After New Premier Named

ROME (AP) — Triumphant smiling Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, Shah of Iran, flew homeward today to the explosive country he fled five days ago.

Awaiting him in his land of carpets and oil were a new premier loyal to the monarchy, jubilant crowds cheering their 33-year-old ruler and a panama-clad prisoner under heavy guard — old ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Rome's Iranian colony and legation, which turned its back on the Shah's arrival as a fugitive Monday with 20-year-old Queen Soraya, came out in force to cheer his departure by plane early today.

In a chartered airliner, the Shah and a party of officials and newsmen headed for Baghdad, capital of his own country's next-door neighbor, Iraq.

The young monarch planned to lunch early this afternoon with Iraq's King Faisal, then perhaps fly on to Tehran later today.

QUEEN SORAYA, exhausted and upset by the excitement, remained in Rome to rest up.

Also left behind was the Shah's strong-willed twin sister, Princess Ashraf. Mossadegh had exiled her because she fought his encroachments on the royal power. She hurried from the Riviera to her brother's side yesterday. She said she might drop in on Tehran later for a visit.

Baghdad had been the Shah's first haven Sunday after Mossadegh's overthrow.

U. S. Solons Plan 'Rough' Trip To Congo

WASHINGTON (AP) — A projected field trip to the Belgian Congo drew a small group of lawmakers here today, each equipped with "clothing for rough wear."

The congressmen, members of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, began assembling for a month-long inspection trip on which they leave Sunday.

A committee aide said the lawmakers were advised to pack heavy duty shoes and clothing for their visit to Africa's gold mines and uranium plants.

"We'll take our working clothes with us," said Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio). "We're not going to call on the kings and queens. We're going to do some work in trying to acquaint ourselves with this gigantic program."

The party will include three or four Atomic Energy Commission officials, as well as Sens. Cordon (R-Ore) and Russell (D-Ga.), and Reps. Cole (R-NY), Hineshaw (R-Calif.), Van Zandt (R-Pa.), Holifield (D-Calif.) and Price (D-Ill.). Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) will join them in England.

Hickenlooper, vice chairman of the committee, went to Europe on other business last week.

The group will get the VIP (very important people) treatment from Belgian and South African government officials.

Housewife Aids Trapped Fliers

XENIA (AP) — Two Air Force pilots from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base owe their lives to the quick thinking and bravery of a 130-pound housewife.

When their plane crashed and burned on a farm near here today, Mrs. Genevieve Zimmerman, 40, ran to the wreckage, slid back the cover of the cowl and pulled one man from the burning craft.

A few minutes later her daughter, Darlene, 18, and three men broke the cowl which was jammed and pulled the second man from the plane.

The two airmen, Capt. John H. Saxon, 30, and Capt. Hubert G. Pedersen, 36, instructor pilots at Wright-Patterson, escaped with only minor cuts and shock.

150 Rollicking American GIs Gain Freedom From Commies

PANMUNJOM (AP) — A rollicking 150 Americans, the largest single-day delivery yet in the Korean War prisoner exchange, rode out of Red captivity at this wayside village last night.

Eager as youngsters, they shouted and danced as they were freed with 300 South Koreans.

The Americans were from Camp 1 at Chongson on the Yalu River, the Red stockade for "incorrigibles" who resisted Communism.

The repatriates said the first group of Americans from a fourth Red prison—Camp 9 Kangye—arrived last night at Kaesong, the Red clearing site.

All other American POWs sent back have been from Camps 4, 3 and 5, including some men transferred to these camps from other stockades.

TODAY'S SHIPMENT was expected to include some Camp 9 prisoners, a number of whom were reported only recently captured.

The Reds said today's delivery would include 94 Americans—30 of them sick or wounded—300 South Koreans, 23 British, 13 Canadians, 3 Australians, 2 French, 1 Turk and 1 Colombian.

The 150 Americans returned last night brought the total to 1,465 of the 3,313 the Reds said they held. In all, 6,983 Allied prisoners have been returned of the 12,763 listed by the Communists.

No Communist POWs were sent north yesterday for the second straight day, but more were

Police Probe Fatal Beating Of Child, 6

CLEVELAND (AP) — For 6-year-old Celia Barger, the investigation came too late. She will be buried tomorrow, described by police as the victim of beatings at the hands of an aunt and uncle.

But for Celia's older sister, Helen, 8, it may be the start of a new life. Helen, also showing the marks of beatings, was reunited with her father yesterday, her tears showing how glad she was to see him.

The investigation started Wednesday when Celia's aunt, Mrs. Mary Barger, 31, took the child's bruised and lifeless body to a hospital. The aunt has been charged with first-degree manslaughter.

Her husband, Matthew, a 31-year-old bricklayer, was charged with aiding and abetting manslaughter. A conviction on either charge carries a maximum penalty of 120 years in prison.

Sgt. John Barger, father of the two girls, was called here from Stewart Air Force Base in Smyrna, Tenn., after Celia's death. He had been sending his brother and sister-in-law $200 a month to board the children. He never knew until Wednesday, he said, that anything was wrong. He left the girls here after he divorced their mother, Sally, last March. A native of Mingo Junction, near Steubenville, he has flown 144 missions in Korea.

Morocco Gets Another Sultan

French Maintaining Iron Hand On Colony

PARIS (AP) — Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafah was proclaimed as the new Sultan of Morocco today.

Moroccans received calmly the news that Arafah, the 64-year-old uncle of Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who was deposed by France as Sultan yesterday and sent into exile on Corsica, is to move into the ruler's palace at Rabat.

Apparently the threat of civil war between the deposed Sultan's Nationalist followers and the Berber countrymen who rallied behind Pasha Thami El Glaoui of Marrakech had receded.

No outbreaks of violence were reported, either in French Morocco or Tangier, the international zone.

But France maintained an iron vigil over her North African protectorate. Heavy guards were alert in all Moroccan cities.

A FRENCH government spokesman announced last night that Arafah, a wealthy resident of Fez, would succeed to the throne as Morocco's temporal and religious ruler.

The senior religious council of Morocco, a tribunal of Ulemas or religious scholars, confirmed the selection today in a meeting at Fez.

Next will come Arafah's solemn enthronement at Rabat. The time of this ceremony has not been set.

Young Gunman Kills, Robs Ohio Trucker

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — A young father of two children killed and robbed an Ohio truck driver early today after directing the victim into Fort Wayne, police said.

Detective Capt. Mitchell Cleveland said Charles E. Roberts, 25, admitted in a signed statement he shot Dale Roy Young, 27, Barberton, Ohio, and took $32 and his wrist watch.

The statement said the shooting took place about 15 minutes after Roberts had robbed a filling station on U.S. 30 at the east edge of Fort Wayne.

Roberts said in the statement that Young asked for directions and he told the Ohio man to follow him. Roberts said he drove his 1929 model car into Fort Wayne and circled aimlessly around.

He said Young became angry, got out of the cab of his truck and yelled: "What the hell are you trying to do?"

Roberts said he fired one shot from his shotgun, which struck Young in the chest.

Nearby residents gave police a description of the old model car and Roberts was arrested 10 minutes later.

Roberts' statement said he was "confused and (does) not remember what took place too clearly."

Police could not determine how much money was taken from the filling station.

Indian Resolution Gets Close Study In U. N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Scandinavian countries today joined the growing list of U. N. governments lining up in favor of India's participation in the Korean peace conference.

Despite increased United States efforts to block the inclusion of India, Denmark this morning became a co-sponsor of an Australian-New Zealand resolution recommending a seat for Prime Minister Nehru's government.

BOTH SWEDEN and Norway later told the General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee they would support the proposal.

A short time later, Cuba became the first U. N. member to line up with the United States in opposing India's inclusion in the conference.

Meanwhile, the delegates studied a new Indian proposal which some said would give Communist China and North Korea a veto over the U. N.'s choices for the conference table.

The new Indian move coincided with a stepup by the United States in its drive to keep India out of the negotiations. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced he would vote against inviting India to the conference table.

The General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee meanwhile kept up its efforts to pick a slate of representatives to sit at the conference. Committee Chairman Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil said if the delegates didn't hurry up, they couldn't finish by next week.

The Indian resolution proposed that U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold communicate the (Continued on Page Two)

Con Killed In Western Prison Riot

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — Three-hundred inmates of the Washington State Reformatory last night went on a destructive spree that ended hours later with one man dead, three injured and five of the institution's sprawling buildings destroyed by fire.

Half of the rioters were in a cell block, the others on the grounds in the center of the buildings they had set torch to in a sudden outbreak of frenzied viciousness.

The rioters struck without warning during the evening recreation period. One group took over one of the reformatory's two large cell blocks and the other ran through the grounds setting fire to the surrounding buildings.

Three-hundred other prisoners took no part in the uprising. Guards at first made no effort to stop the stone-throwing, bat-hurling, cursing, howling convicts.

Then, several hours after the first outbreak at 7 p. m., a group of the men on the grounds tried to break through the gate. Guards, almost shoulder to shoulder along the 30 foot high walls and armed with everything from riot guns to tommyguns, opened fire.

Four men fell. One was mortally wounded. Another, struck by a ricocheting bullet which passed through his head right behind his eyes, lay on the ground screaming.

Doctors said later he would be forever sightless.

The other two were not wounded seriously.

French Strike End Is Seen

Non-Red Unions Order Workers Back To Jobs

PARIS (AP) — Non-Communist unions ordered thousands of workers back to their jobs today, the first break in the wave of strikes that has strangled France for 16 days.

But the back-to-work trek was slow. Unions were meeting all over France to discuss the terms of settlement.

The Socialist Workers' Force and the Christian Labor Federation reached agreement with Premier Joseph Laniel's government early today for postal, telegraph and telephone workers to end their strike. Other government workers were expected to join the movement.

But attempts to put in telephone calls to other cities in France still were fruitless this afternoon. The communications services were not expected to be back to normal before Monday.

ON OTHER STRIKE fronts there was little perceptible change. Only a few railroad trains were running, though Socialists and Catholics ordered their rail men back to work.

The government was reported to have promised the postal, telephone and telegraph strikers:

1. To call into session before Sept. 30 a commission to consider a general upward revision of French wages.

2. To take no sanctions against strikers.

3. To consult the unions before putting into effect Laniel's proposed economy decrees upping retirement age limits and cutting other benefits.

These decrees were the original cause of the strike. The strikers later added demands for wage increases and bonuses.

The settlement was expected to form a pattern for settlement of other strikes.

The Catholic union today restated its demand that Parliament be called back next week to consider the labor situation.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, left out of the negotiations, had not yet indicated any end to its walkout.

Spreckles Jailed In Beating Case

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sugar heir Adolph Spreckles II was jailed last night on suspicion of beating his fifth former wife, actress Jay Williams.

The beating took place Wednesday but the story didn't leak out until detectives booked the 41-year-old millionaire. Neighbors said Miss Williams, 36, suffered head and body injuries when doused by blows from her own shoe. She divorced Spreckles last year on grounds of physical abuse, but had leased an apartment here to be near her children, Joan and Adolph III, who are staying with their father.

Experts Pondering Future In U.S.-Soviet H-Bomb Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is following closely in the path of the United States, if not actually catching up, in the race for mastery of atomic weapons.

It may some day overtake this country in the number of stockpiled weapons, but the point is relatively unimportant, in the opinion of many experts.

For the time will come, these authorities believe, when the Soviet Union will have at its disposal enough bombs to pose an extremely dangerous threat to American security, regardless of how many bombs the U. S. possesses.

Officials here say the measure

Lausche Taps Trio For Road Study Group

COLUMBUS (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche today named a new state highway construction council to build modern arterial roads throughout Ohio.

They are: Wilbur M. Cotton, director of community relations with National Cash Register Co., Dayton; Clingan Jackson, political editor for the Youngstown Vindicator and former state senator, and Jesse E. VanFossen, Croton, manager and secretary of the Ohio Hybrid Seed Corn Products.

The 100th General Assembly created the council to supervise construction of inter-urban highways from new taxes on trucks and gasoline. The Senate refused to confirm three previous appointees on final adjournment day Aug. 7. That made new appointments necessary.

The Republican-controlled legislature created the council as a key unit in a multi-million dollar highway construction program. The council will classify roads, fix priorities and release funds.

Money under council control will come from a penny-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes and an axle-mile tax on cargo trucks. The levy will apply to trucks with three or more axles according to the miles the vehicles travel.

Statute requires the council to meet within 30 days after appointment and name a chairman and secretary. The state highway director must present a highway classification plan before Oct. 1 for council review. The plan must include roads in the inter-state highway system. After approving a plan, the council and highway director will decide on construction priorities.

Grunewald Found Overcome By Gas

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — A man police identified as Henry Grunewald of Washington, D. C., was found overcome by gas fumes, with a woman in an apartment today.

Police said papers in the man's wallet gave the address of Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald, who figured prominently in a congressional inquiry into influence peddling.

Police said Grunewald, 63, and Mrs. Ann Anderson, 46, were found overcome by gas fumes from two open jets of a kitchen stove, on which food had been cooking. Both were reported in good condition in Jersey City Medical Center today. The wife of "The Dutchman" was en route there to see the hospitalized man.

Tar Tank Truck Upsets On Curve

A tank trailer carrying a full load of road tar upset at about 9 a. m. Friday on the Dawson Pike, about two miles north of Williamsport.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the accident happened when the tank truck, owned by George VanCamp, was rounding a sharp curve heading west.

Forrest Johnson, 34, of Circleville Route 2, said he applied the air brakes going into the curve and when he let up the truck just seemed to flip over.

The truck rolled over onto its top, its load of tar gushing onto the road and into the ditch. Johnson was struck in the head by a large pipe wrench in the cab and was doused with tar, but otherwise escaped unhurt.

Radcliff said the truck cab was demolished in the crash and the tank trailer was badly bent up.

Speakman Says He Plans Reply To Chamber's Rap On Streets

City Service Director Dewey Speakman made it clear Friday he won't ignore a Chamber of Commerce protest against litter and debris on city streets.

A letter in which the city Chamber protested the dirty condition of city streets was read to City Council Tuesday night. The lawmakers voted to "accept and file" the communication.

Speakman said he intends to have something to say on the same subject before very long, but asked that his plans be withheld "until I'm ready to say a few things that should be said."

In reference to the letter made public in Council, Speakman said: "I have duly noted the letter from the Chamber, as brought to my attention by reading in City Council's meeting. I am very much aware of the situation to which the Chamber refers, and I myself will have an announcement on the matter in the near future."

Assembly decisions to the North Korean and Peiping regimes "and report to the General Assembly as appropriate."

INDIAN Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon said it was purely procedural, but U. S. delegates thought they saw a gimmick in it. They said it would require careful study.

A member of the Indian delegation said privately that the resolution would give the Communist combatants, China and North Korea, a chance to comment on the U. N. decisions, and possibly to reject them. These two countries are not members of the U. N. and not taking part in the current discussions here.

Lodge has maintained that the Korean armistice agreement is clear in its provisions that the "two sides" of the Korean war should choose their own representatives. On this basis, Lodge opposed a Soviet proposal to invite Red China and North Korea to attend the Assembly debates.

British and Canadian sources said they favored the new Indian proposal as a wise procedural move. Both Britain and Canada are urging India's participation in the Korean peace parley.

Lodge previously had stated only that he would not vote for India, leaving open the question whether this meant a negative vote or the less-emphatic abstention. His statement of outright opposition last night was designed to attract wavering members to his side.

The United States has agreed to support a proposal recommending Russia's participation in the conference provided the two Communist combatants want her. Adoption of this proposal is assured, but Russia has not yet indicated whether she would attend on the basis of the resolution.

Long distance service through the Circleville office of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. has been improved an estimated 27 per cent.

Ed Jury, manager of the local office, said four new Circleville-Columbus long distance lines have been hooked up and are in operation now.

Jury said practically all long distance calls from here, and from Ashville, Laurelville and Williamsport exchanges, are routed through Columbus.

Young Shah Returning To Iranian Throne

deh's armed forces foiled the attempt of palace guards to enforce a royal decree naming Maj. Gen. Fazollah Zahedi premier.

Fleeing to Iraq in his own plane, the Shah and his wife went on to Rome Monday by British airliner. He dashed home-ward almost as hurriedly after Iran's masses and his army rallied to Zahedi and his ruler's standard and drove Mossadegh from his heavily-fortified home Wednesday. Three hundred or more died in the fighting.

The weepy-eyed old premier, who drove the British out of his nation's vast oilfields and then tried so hard to clip his ruler's power, surrendered yesterday to Zahedi at his headquarters in the Central Tehran Officers Club. Weak and limping, he still had on his habitual pink pajamas.

His future was uncertain. Zahedi, in a "give yourself up" broadcast 12 hours earlier, had said, "we will wait for the nation to say what should be done with him."

Disagreement Over $490 Mower Adds Fuel To Park Board Row

A power lawn mower which cost $490 was driven Friday into the center of the controversy over whether the City Park Board's operations need a complete overhaul.

Mayor Ed Amey, a member of the board, said he was told to go ahead and buy the mower early this year. A member of the board, however, said the Mayor purchased the equipment without the knowledge of Chairman Bill Cook and at least one other member of the group.

Amey said, as he recalls, both Bob Colville and Cook were present at the meeting in the Ted Lewis Park shelter house when it was decided to buy the lawn mower.

"I remember it was an idea that was well discussed," the Mayor said, "because they even told me what kind they wanted me to buy—specifying what kind of blades they wanted on it."

Adding fire to the difference in views over the purchase was the claim that the new mower is not the type needed for the park, and that it is now setting idle while the old mower is being used to cut the grass. The new mower, it is claimed, is not designed to operate well except on level lawn.

HOWEVER, CITY Service Director Dewey Speakman said he saw the new mower being used in the park. Speakman is not a member of adviser, Ali Shayaneg, and two former cabinet members surrendered with him. There was no word of Mossadegh's chief henchman, fiery former Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi. Earlier reports, never confirmed, said the mob tore him to pieces Wednesday.

Mossadegh and his three associates were held in rooms on the top floor of the Tehran officers club. Tanks and troops guarded the building.

Disagreement Over $490 Mower Adds Fuel To Park Board Row

A power lawn mower which cost $490 was driven Friday into the center of the controversy over whether the City Park Board's operations need a complete overhaul.

Mayor Ed Amey, a member of the board, said he was told to go ahead and buy the mower early this year. A member of the board, however, said the Mayor purchased the equipment without the knowledge of Chairman Bill Cook and at least one other member of the group.

Amey said, as he recalls, both Bob Colville and Cook were present at the meeting in the Ted Lewis Park shelter house when it was decided to buy the lawn mower.

"I remember it was an idea that was well discussed," the Mayor said, "because they even told me what kind they wanted me to buy—specifying what kind of blades they wanted on it."

Adding fire to the difference in views over the purchase was the claim that the new mower is not the type needed for the park, and that it is now setting idle while the old mower is being used to cut the grass. The new mower, it is claimed, is not designed to operate well except on level lawn.

HOWEVER, CITY Service Director Dewey Speakman said he saw the new mower being used in the park. Speakman is not a member of adviser, Ali Shayaneg, and two former cabinet members surrendered with him. There was no word of Mossadegh's chief henchman, fiery former Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi. Earlier reports, never confirmed, said the mob tore him to pieces Wednesday.

Mossadegh and his three associates were held in rooms on the top floor of the Tehran officers club. Tanks and troops guarded the building.

Nellie Fox, second baseman with the Chicago White Sox, was born on Christmas Day, 1927, in St. Thomas, Pa.

Home-Building Boom Is Seen As Continuing

Highly Active Stork Expected To Increase Number Of Fat Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven fat years for home builders have been about eight million housing units added to the nation's total. Some in the real estate building are now openly talking of slower days to come.

But others refuse to believe that the seven fat years, since the big boom started in 1947 will be followed by seven lean—as in the biblical tale of Joseph in Egypt.

They say that around 700,000 new homes will be needed each year to take care of new family formations. That perhaps another 300,000 will be needed to replace old houses beyond renovation. If the mortgage market holds up, the next few years shouldn't be too lean.

The highly active stork is the home builder's best friend. The Builders notes today that the population of the United States has just rounded out the 160 million figure. Next month it expects the eight millionth new house to be started.

That will give the nation some 50 million housing units, or about one for each three persons. Back in 1940 the nation's 131 million persons were housed in 35 million units, or almost 4 to a unit.

And then more than half were renters. Now more than half are owners — if you wink at the mortgages on some 10 million homes.

The mortgage market may hold the key to which wins the race, in the next year or so, the home builders or the stork.

"Banks have become very tight when it comes to credits for builders," complains David Pickett, president of The Gotham Construction Corp. of New York. He fears a building recession the last quarter of this year and into next, if the money market doesn't ease.

The market is tight because mortgages must compete with a big supply of government and private securities in getting money from investors. Total savings are catching up, however. Last year savings were officially placed at 12½ billion dollars. This year the mutual savings banks, savings and loan associations, commercial banks, and life insurance companies all report gains.

Personal savings not turned over to such institutions last year amounted to 37 per cent of total savings, according to George W. Warnecke, who heads a national mortgage investment firm bearing his name.

"Within this margin between actual personal savings and those given in trust to institutions lies the dormant capital available for real estate, stock and bond investment," Warnecke says.

He, however, is one of those who looks for a decline in general home-building activity—although not in the areas, like atomic centers, where expansion is still the order of the day. And he thinks that for a time interest rates on mortgages are likely to go higher.

If a slump in home building should come, Warnecke points out that the traditional depression-proof investments in real estate are commercial store centers, well-established office buildings, and well-located modern apartment houses. And he adds the comforting thought that "all declines end."

Carl Furillo of the Dodgers is having his best season in the majors. Only time he went above .300 was in 1950 when he hit .305.

'Taxes' Talk Is Heard By Rotarians

Simon Noggle, former Circleville resident who had been connected with the internal revenue department in Columbus as chief of the income tax department, spoke before Circleville Rotary club Thursday noon on "Taxes."

With 20 years of experience in the field of income taxes to draw from, Noggle related the history of taxes in the United States, the first tax being the stamp tax, then taxes on imports and whiskey.

Income tax was first collected during the Civil War and this law later was declared unconstitutional, he said. The present income tax was passed by Congress in 1913, and many amendments have been made since the original law was passed.

The present income tax, as amended, is interpreted separately by many people who are employed in the 64 collection districts in the United States, Noggle said, which creates some confusion in the interpretations made.

A PERSON can avoid paying taxes, he said, but no one can evade paying taxes. He related the experiences of some persons who have tried to evade paying income taxes, but were not successful.

"The only way to beat the income tax is not to have any income," Noggle said, "and the best way to do is to be honest with the government in making out your income tax and avoid penalties."

James Pollard, dean of the school of journalism of Ohio State University, was a guest at the meeting.

Marquis' Wife Asking Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—The Marchioness Romaine Milford-Haven stated a state Supreme Court action yesterday for "separation or divorce" from David Milford-Haven.

Her suit was placed on the calendar for a September trial.

The marquis former escort of Princess Margaret, was best man at the wedding of British Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

County Farmers Warned Weevils Now Appearing In Stored Wheat

Grain weevils and grain moths are now starting to make their appearance in some Pickaway County stored wheat.

Larry Best, county extension agent, says most of the weevils and moths so far have been found in on-the-farm stored wheat which was not treated with pyrethrin at the time of storage. In most cases, the bins did not receive a five per cent DDT spray in advance of storage.

Stored wheat should be inspected at weekly intervals to determine if destructive insects are present, Best said. The presence of weevils, small grey moths, small dark beetles, small white worms with brown heads or wheat kernels with tiny holes in them should be cause for immediate treatment.

Use carbon bisulfide at the rate of three pounds for each 100 bushels of wheat. The bin should be made as tight as possible before applying the chemical.

LEVEL OFF the grain and use a sprinkling can to evenly distribute the bisulfide over the surface of the grain. If the bin is not tight a canvas or tarpaulin should then be placed over the top of the grain and left for at least 36 hours.

The bin should be aired thoroughly.

He Offered Help (To Wrong Party)

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The purse-snatcher was too swift for Miss Olive Patrick's 50 years, but she didn't give up at first.

She chased the culprit after he grabbed her purse containing $6.25. He was gaining ground when she came upon a parked automobile with the driver at the wheel.

"That man got my purse," she exclaimed.

"He did?" responded the driver. He started the car, caught up with the purse-snatcher, opened the door . . . and the purse-snatcher jumped in. They both drove off.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two scientists say bottled milk exposed to daylight for half an hour or more gets an off-taste "sunlight flavor" and loses vitamins.

Tests showed, they said, that the different taste resulted from exposure to light alone, not heat, and can happen in winter or summer.

The Christian's Prayer Life

CHRIST TEACHES DISCIPLES HOW TO PRAY

Scripture—Matthew 6:7-13; 1 Timothy 2:1-8; Romans 8:26-28.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

DO PEOPLE generally pray less than they did? That might be a subject for argument. In our troubled, warring world, do not more people turn to God for strength, and comfort to bear their griefs and bravely face their problems?

Fighter pilots and bomber crews pray, I am sure, when they go into battle, not knowing whether they will return safely or be shot down. Sailors in storms at sea, soldiers going into battle, the wounded on the battlefield, all turn their thoughts to God and pray for His help.

Possibly some of us at home do not pray as often as we should, or give little thought to our prayers, repeating the words without really thinking what they mean.

However, millions who have lost loved ones—wives whose husbands have been taken, husbands who have lost their wives; mothers and fathers whose children have died whether in battle, by accident or disease, turn to a very few minutes and play happily together again.

How can you repeat the Lord's prayer about being forgiven for your sins if you know in your heart you have not forgiven those who have offended you?

"Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." That may be our most earnest prayer. Temptations come to us all, but we can gain the strength to resist them, if we pray with our whole hearts.

In writing his first epistle to Timothy, Paul says: "I exhort therefore, that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty, for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour."

The comparatively few kings and queens left in the world, as well as the rulers of all lands, including our own, need our prayers, for there are many heavy

MEMORY VERSE

"After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."—Matthew 6:9-10.

their Father in heaven for help and comfort.

In the sermon on the Mount Jesus told His disciples how to pray, "not as the heathen do; for they think they shall be heard for their much speaking."

"Be not ye therefore like unto them, for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of before ye ask Him."

"After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

What can each one of us do, we may ask ourselves and our children, to make this prayer come true? Not much? We can obey moral laws, love one another; be kind to everyone and considerate of their comfort.

We also can be helpful to those in sorrow; "rejoice with them that rejoice and weep with them that weep," as Paul said. This may not seem much, but it does help. "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." Many professing Christians fail in this. Haven't you known members of a church who were not on speaking terms with other members? How many husbands and wives are not speaking to each other because of some probably silly dispute?

Children get "mad" at each other, but adults may well take a lesson from their little children who forget their disagreements in problems to solve, and every person in authority, in our own land and all others needs great wisdom and foresight to cope with them.

To the Romans Paul wrote, "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose."

Do we doubt this? We all know people who allow their sorrows and disappointments to crush their spirits; but we also are acquainted with others who rise above almost overwhelming griefs and disasters to become finer characters—the world's saints.

Seek God in prayer and He will help you. Teach your children to take life's blows in stride, and to seek help from above, that they may grow into fine adults who will have courage and stamina to triumph over life's ills.

The younger members of a Sunday school class may be asked to talk about their earthly fathers, and what they talk about to them, what requests they make, and their closeness to them.

Then they can be led to see that God, our Father, is even nearer to us than our earthly fathers, and all our lives we can ask help from Him.

The older pupils should be reminded that Jesus and Paul "prayed always." If they and other saintly men felt the need of prayer, how much more do we in this day of repeated crises?

Ted Lewis Theme Centered On Legion Corps Majorette

When Majorette Delores Elsea leads Circleville's American Legion drum and bugle corps into competition at the Ohio State Fair on Aug. 30, her uniform will carry a good luck charm in its pattern.

The majorette's new outfit gives a full nod of tribute to the silk-hat-and-dress-suit trademark of Ted Lewis, the famed maestro who has never passed a chance to boost his hometown. And that won't be the only way in which the local unit will be trying to lure the good fortune that followed the city's native son.

Much of the music to be used by the corps when it aims at the top awards for 1953 will have the Ted Lewis background, with Miss Elsea to furnish the pantomime with a second timing. The corps' fanfare and finale this year will be "When My Baby Smiles At Me," and the concert number for the competition field is "Me And My Shadow"—tunes readily associated by the public everywhere with Circleville's great song and stage star.

Clifford Kerns arranged the music for the corps, and the majorette's uniform was especially designed for the Ted Lewis theme.

IN THE MANNER of Ted himself, Miss Elsea waves, flips and juggles the traditional tall hat while the familiar tunes ring out. And all of it will have to be with success or failure depending upon every musical note, every turn by the corps or its majorette—even on every flip of the famous hat.

Hawk-eyed and keen-eared judges always see and hear far more than the spectators when veterans come on the field to match their music and precision maneuvers. The all-important contest points can fade away on a quick, false movement that only the judges notice. On a musical note sounded deep in the ranks. On a bit of threat resting on a uniformed sleeve, or on the angle of a hat or the style of shoes and the manner in which the heels click.

Above all, the winning or losing points can rest heavily on the majorette out in front. All by herself, if the fates were to be so cruel, she could throw away a well-earned victory. Add to that the extra frills planned for Miss Elsea when Circleville marches on the field at the fair, and you have the plans for an all-out effort.

While the local unit attaches more prestige to laurels won in the annual Legion convention, prizes are much more substantial and the competition more rugged at the state festival. Circleville placed third again in the Legion test this year and the corps' trim majorette was officially declared the Legion's best in Ohio. More than ever now, the spotlight will be on Circleville during the state fair competition.

There were many who mumbled dark doubts when the local corps was the first to march into Legion competition last year with a girl handling the drum major duties. All over the state the false prophets predicted it would turn out to be a sad mistake—going overboard for the sake of public appeal and throwing away the many little points that figure in the competitive scoring.

Gay, easy and colorful as it may look to the spectators, the prophets warned, drum and bugle corps competition had long ago become a tough, high-keyed game that only men could handle correctly. An attractive girl out in front would only be disaster in pretty disguise, the peddlers of doom whispered, if she once dropped her baton, missed a step in the intricate maneuvers or failed to swing perfectly with the dead-serious, all-male team behind her.

"THAT CIRCLEVILLE majorette" had two strikes on her—and they were even bigger ones on the unit—when the great experiment was tried for the first time. Miss Elsea was strictly a gamble, and maybe at the time even she herself knew it. But if she did, it didn't bother her—and as a result Circleville's name is known wherever they talk of drum and bugle corps competition in this part of the country.

At Mansfield earlier this year, the announcer called upon the audience to roar out special applause for the Circleville majorette. A few other state outfits this year cautiously introduced majorettes into part of their efforts on the drill field, but Circleville's brunette performer is recognized as the leader of them all—the gamble that paid off.

Almost all the corps have their own majorettes, but with few exceptions they step aside gracefully when the men march on to the field to compete for the points in which high ability comes ahead of everything else. Few are willing to entrust any of their scoring to the girls you see out front in the parades.

Only Circleville was willing to risk losing heavily in other departments in order to have Miss Elsea help out in "general effect"—general appearance of the unit on the field. She handles a full share of the unit's maneuvers in competition.

Circleville's experiment officially ended in success when judges at the Legion convention ranked Miss Elsea the state's top majorette. She's definitely a part of the picture, but still another girl will be vitally important when the corps takes the field at the Ohio State Fair.

She won't be seen by anyone, but above all the others she shuffles the cards and deals out the little breaks that show in the final score sheets. They call her the fate of the game, and all the world knows her as Fickle and fancy-free.

Circleville, already boasting the state's best majorette, will be out to win the favor of the girl who will look them all over and finally point to the winner. And for a lead-off serenade, the home corps will turn to that old tried and true reliable that carries the real Circleville tradition—with the Ted Lewis trimmings: "When My Baby Smiles At Me."

Men In Advertising Business Must Cope With Many Taboos

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—It is now a matter of record that a man in the advertising business can get ulcers in Karachi or Johannesburg or Hong Kong just as easily as he does in New York.

Only the causes vary. In India, he has to avoid sex in at least 14 different languages. In Latin-America, he can pull out almost all the stops. In Hong Kong, he can't tell the Chinese to smoke a given cigarette without saying please. The Chinese are very sensitive about courtesy.

In Calcutta, he can't even tell the Hindus to smoke, please. The Hindi language just has no word for smoke. Over there, it comes out "drink a cigarette."

All this information I picked up this week while smoking a few drinks with foreign office managers of the Grant Advertising Agency. Besides talking over local problems, they played local commercial recordings for us.

You should have heard that shampoo commercial sung in the Tagalog and Cebuana dialects of the Philippines. Personally, I like it better that way.

An Indian toothpaste jingle was accompanied by a band that sounded like a calliope falling apart. Indian musicians, it was explained, will use eight different rhythms at once while they employ only a five-note scale.

Some things are the same the world over. A filmed TV commercial in Mexico City showed a pretty blonde stepping out to a diving board. Just as she was about to go in a sing-song voice said, "Un momento," and she was called back for her hair oil.

An ad appearing in India, said Aubrey Mendieta of Bombay, can not show a girl kissing. Several merchants who tried it had their shop windows stoned by angry mobs. Hindus insist that sex is private.

No Indian woman can be pictured in anything but the most proper clothes. Decolletage is absolutely out. This, said Mendieta, adds to the advertiser's problems in view of the fact that 80 per cent of the shopping, even for women's clothes, is done by men. However, Hindus don't object to seeing American or British women shown in bathing suits.

But in Latin-America, the neck line in ads plunges even lower than in North America. This despite the fact that Latin-Americans, as individuals, generally are modest.

In Brazil, the ad writer cannot speak of a "fresh cigarette" because in Portuguese the word "fresh" has a naughty connotation.

In Venezuela, a man said, you can claim anything. You can say your tire is the "only puncture-proof, blow-out proof tire in the world." They have no laws or codes against such things.

In South Africa, mobile units carry recorded commercials in English, Afrikaans, Zulu, Basuto and other tribal tongues. They are played in native villages, where frequently the favorite music is American jive.

In Hong Kong, the advertiser has to lay off the color blue. Chinese associate it with funerals. Red goes over big. The Chinese think it is accompanied by good luck, and frequently clothe their kids in red to "drive away the devil." It's just a superstition, not politics.

Downtown Subway OK'd In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga County's regional planning commission has approved a proposal for construction of a downtown subway loop which would cost an estimated $33½ million.

County commissioners, who asked for the planning group's study, now must decide whether to ask voters for bond issues to finance the project. The proposed subway would operate in downtown Cleveland, serving to link other public transportation facilities which enter the business section from several directions.

Ohio Employment Record Is Set

COLUMBUS (AP)—Records for employment, number of employers and size of payrolls in Ohio were shattered in 1952.

The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports some 83,000 employers paid $9,294,000,000 to an average of 2,396,000 workers. Only employers subject to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Law—those with three or more workers each—were included.

Only decreases were in the mining and quarrying industries, where employment and payrolls were down as result of a strike.

Carrier Slated For French Use

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The U. S. Navy carrier Belleau Wood is being taken out of mothballs at the San Francisco naval shipyard and will be loaned to the French government next month, the Navy said yesterday.

The flattop won 11 battle stars in Pacific war action.

A part of the French crew to take over the ship already is here. The 14,000-ton carrier is being loaned to the French under congressional authority, in furtherance of mutual defense pacts. The craft had a crew of 1,400 during its service in the Pacific in World War II.

Where Is Cominform Now? And Where Is Ana Pauker?

By RICHARD O'REGAN
BUCHAREST (AP)—Where is the headquarters of the Cominform, the world-spanning, secret propaganda agency of the Kremlin that transmits Moscow's revolutionary orders?

Where is Ana Pauker? These are two of the current mysteries about Communist Romania to which American correspondents sought answers when invited here for the first time in five years.

The Cominform's powerful general staff is supposed to be in this Romanian capital. From Bucharest instructions allegedly go out to Red agents the world over.

We asked a Romanian official where it was. He looked shocked at our audacity and replied: "I really have no idea."

We questioned Western diplomats. One pointed out a heavily guarded ring of big residences in northern Bucharest. Entry to the area is stopped by armed militia. He said it might be there.

Another diplomat said no, that was probably the headquarters of the Central Committee of the Romanian Communist party. The Cominform, he said, is rumored to be quartered in the country club of a former oil company at Lake Snagov.

All the diplomats really knew was that the second meeting of the world's top Communist bosses met in the late King Carol's mountain-side summer palace in Sinaia in 1949, and that certain secret meetings of the Cominform's staff may take place in the English-style country house of a former princess at Posada, in the Carpathian foothills.

Bushy-haired, Jewish-born Ana Pauker, once the world's most powerful woman Communist and Romania's foreign minister, used to live in a big house on Bucharest's fashionable Chaussee Kisselef. More than a year ago she was bounced as foreign minister and as a member of the Politburo. Although a lifelong friend of Stalin's, she was accused of "secret meetings" against the Red state.

A Romanian who claimed to know told us she was sent to the Kremlin after she was kicked out of the government. There were rumors she was arrested or had died.

After her dismissal, diplomats said, she traveled around Bucharest in a big car, visited government offices and was in the Romanian Parliament last December. She was seen on Bucharest's streets in May.

Asked specifically, Grigore Preoteasa, assistant foreign minister, told U. S. correspondents all the rumors were "fantasy and idle talk."

"She is in Bucharest and is no longer a member of the government." That was all he would say.

Foreign Spending Worries Senator

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Unless the situation changes and "some nations put their houses in order, I have voted for my last foreign aid bill," Senate Minority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said yesterday.

Johnson spoke here at a country club luncheon. "We will have to find a stopping point on foreign spending before we bleed ourselves white," he said. "If Chancellor Adenauer (of West Germany) goes under in September," Johnson warned, "we will have to rely largely upon ourselves to face our big enemy in the world—communism."

State Sales Tax Ahead Of 1952

COLUMBUS (AP)—State sales tax collections are running ahead of last year's rate. State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy said receipts for the first 39 days of the 1953 fiscal year were $20,355,614.96. This is $4,229,355.44 more than receipts at the same time a year ago he said.

The state treasurer said receipts for the week ending Aug. 8 exceeded $3 million for the second consecutive time. He said this reflects an up-swing in sales volumes for 1953 which could set a record for a 12-month period if continued.

Lausche Inspects

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche yesterday inspected state schools for the deaf and blind to consider the advisability of converting them to state office buildings after new blind and deaf schools open here.

Aug. 18 Big Day For Chicagoan

Mrs. Klett has received word that her husband was honorably discharged as a Marine lieutenant on Tuesday. He's coming home and will attend law school at the University of Notre Dame.

Families Heading Back To Homes

FORESTVILLE, Que. (AP)—More than 150 women and children evacuated last Sunday from the forest-fire-threatened village of Ste. Therese headed home today.

The main blaze, which started Aug. 7 and charred 165 square miles of timberland, has made little progress the past day or two, woodsman said. They would not give assurance that it was completely under control but said villages in the area did not appear to be in immediate danger.

BIZARRE FARM PLAN

SEN. ANDREW SCHOEPPEL of Kansas probably reflects majority thinking in Congress when he questions the "cost of production" farm plan of eager-beaver Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado as a replacement of the present program of loans and parity supports. The current farm law runs out next year and will be reenacted or supplanted by Congress.

In sketchy outline, the Thornton scheme provides that the government guarantee the farmer his average cost of production. If government purchases of surpluses are necessary—the guy seems to be something of a humorist—the food thus acquired would be funneled overseas.

Schoepfel asks for clarification. Such a program would create many new problems. There would scarcely be ground then for denying the demand of some labor union officials for a guaranteed annual wage. Or for denying a demand from business for a guaranteed annual profit. Or from property owners for a guaranteed annual income. And so on.

Most observers are convinced it will be difficult to get Congress to drop parity loans and surplus purchases, especially during an election year. Members judge farm sentiment to be for the present program. Consumers have no voice in the prices they must pay, and the law of supply and demand has been repealed.

Approval of wheat controls by wheat farmers in the recent referendum is regarded as having guaranteed passage of a bill to reenact the present subsidy system when it expires. Farmers have signified they are for it, and Congress will give them what they want.

CYCLE COMPLETED

SOVIET AND WESTERN nations are back at the old stall of talking about getting together for Big Power talks with little likelihood they will do so. In the latest cycle of thrust and parry, the West's overture was avowedly loaded, the proposed agenda limited to German unity and the Austrian peace treaty, a move known to be unpalatable to the Reds. The Muscovites insist upon the inclusion of Red China.

The prize in the sparring is the future of Germany and the outcome of Pro-Western Chancellor Adenauer's reelection bid next month. Both sides seek to assure unity-conscious Germans of their support, but each wants a reunited Germany on its own terms and in its own camp.

The stakes are high, but for different reasons neither the U. S. nor Russia desires to debate the issue at this time. Both believe time runs in their respective favor.

These Days

The Korean War was fought to establish a principle, namely, that military aggression is not tolerable in the affairs of nations. The North Koreans regarded the war as civil war and not as aggression; it is for this reason that they have taken the position that the United States invaded Korea.

That view could have been acceptable up to November, 1950, when Communist China intervened as an aggressor. That eliminated any possibility of regarding the conflict as a civil war.

The Communist Chinese aggression was war. They used the device which the Russians had employed in the Spanish Civil War, namely, that their huge armies, well-organized, admirably provisioned, were volunteers. Yet, the fact is that the North Koreans had been defeated by General MacArthur before the Chinese Communists came in. That defeat had been so complete that MacArthur expected the war to be over soon.

Today, the Chinese Communists are in possession of North Korea and nothing in the truce agreement requires them to leave that country. For this reason, it is possible to say that the United Nations lost the war, since aggression, instead of being punished, is rewarded.

In fact, the British and Canadians, accepting the Chinese Communists as victors, propose that they be given a seat in the United Nations. What greater reward could come to them for aggression?

The Political Conference was to have been made up of nations which had participated in the Korean War—16 of them on our side; two of them on the North Korean side. No provision was made for neutrals or secret co-belligerents to the present.

Soviet Russia was a secret co-belligerent, providing arms, planes, tanks and other supplies; maintaining a world-wide propaganda in favor of North Korea and against the United States; spreading widely, through its international Communist organizations, the lie that we employed germ warfare, and producing diversionary efforts in Europe and Asia designed to prevent a victorious war.

Furthermore, as should be known to the American and British specialists, the Soviet world is a unit in its relations with non-Communist countries. This "One World" group of nations is directed by the Kremlin. Therefore, Soviet Russia was a secret co-belligerent.

However, Soviet Russia demands a seat at the Political Conference as one of the United Nations members. While this was fought by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as historically incorrect, as immoral, since it rewards aggression, as damaging to the prestige of the United Nations, the British and Canadians have favored the Russian cause on the grounds that if Russia sat on the other side of the table, namely, among the Chinese and Korean Communists, it would be an admission that the Russians are belligerents. Well, what are they?

Present U. S. policy is to give the Red rulers more rope to hang themselves in dealing with rebellious East Germans. So both agree again to disagree, which is where German unity languished when Churchill brought the subject up in the first place.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

DURING the two weeks the shop was closed Karen came a most every day: twice Frank was with her, once to call, in the early evening and again one Sunday morning. She came, when alone, at any time, either mornings, leaving by noon, or for long afternoons.

Karen liked to talk and to listen. Gradually he learned a good deal about her. She had a deep regard for all living things, especially children and old people, for the hurt and unhappy. And for animals. "I've never been to a zoo but I've seen pictures. I couldn't stand seeing animals in cages. I've never wanted to visit the fox farms around here or to pass the place where they keep little bears chained, summers. I don't even like a circus!"

He found himself telling her about him and her work.

"That's wonderful," she said. "She must be such a good woman."

"She's all of that."

"Helping the children, that helps her," she said.

"Yes, I suppose you wonder why I don't do something to help myself?"

She nodded. He had talked to her about Tim. "Sometimes, Mr. Barton."

"I have tried. I do try."

"Perhaps the way will come to you," she said.

During this time he often dreamed of Tim, but these were pleasant dreams, no barriers between, no frustration or terror.

Simply they were together somewhere. The background continually altered, it could be a workshop or the Daleway corridors or the river cottage. Sometimes he dreamed of sounds: Tim's feet on the stairs, his voice and laughter, the sound of cars in quiet water.

Karen came one day, and he did not go from camp to greet her. She went to the point and set up the easel, reflecting that he was out on the river or in the village. She sat for a time idle in the sun. She had greatly liked the past days, looked forward to coming here; she had never met a nicer man than David Barton. He was fun to be with, friendly and understanding. And her heart was heavy for him because of his unhappiness. He made her think, too: sometimes they argued, often disagreed. He had a wider outlook than any she had hitherto encountered, more of a horizon. She respected his judgment. He was old enough to be her father, although not sold as her father would have been had he lived. She had really never missed having a father until now. Not that she did not like her stepfather, but she'd been a grown girl when he and her mother married. She thought Tim had been fortunate. She thought a good deal about Tim. He was real and clear to her. She wished that she could help his father.

Looking toward camp, she saw a shadow move across the window. Leaving her things, she went to the back door to knock and call: "Are you there, Mr. Barton?"

"Yes. Come in."

She went in, saying: "I thought you weren't home. What's the matter, are you sick?"

since she had known him, he looked his age and more.

"It's just a headache, Karen. A form of migraine. I'm subject to it. I'll be all right. I got up a moment ago and took a powerful pill. I didn't look out the window and had no idea you were here."

"My mother used to have dreadful headaches. Does ice help?"

"Sometimes."

She went to the shed, found a small piece of ice and took it to the sink. "Do you have an ice cap?"

He told her where it was.

She came back, the ice cap in a towel, and gave it to him. "Have you had anything to eat?" she asked.

"No. When I woke I couldn't get up, and when I did, well, it was too much effort—besides, I didn't want anything."

"Couldn't you manage tea and dry toast? I'll make them. Please let me?"

He said, smiling: "I have no choice," and lay still, content to hear her moving quietly about and presently the singing kettle.

When toast and tea were ready, she asked: "Can you sit up?"

He did so, dizzily, but his headache was better. Karen made him comfortable against pillows and, as he ate and drank, sat beside him, her hands folded.

"How about you, Karen?" he asked, tardily.

"I'll be going home soon," she said. "It's early still. Is the tea all right?"

"Fine. Thanks to you and the pill I feel almost human. Did I tell you my brother-in-law's a good doctor? Karen, you'd make an excellent nurse."

"I'd like to be a nurse, but it's a little late, and besides," she explained, without resentment, "it's doubtful that a hospital would accept me for training. But Aunt Mame's taught me quite a lot."

"Maybe it's as well you didn't attempt to train; it's a rugged life."

"I know. But I feel useless."

"You're the reverse; think of the people you make happy—your aunt, your friends, myself included, and of course, Frank."

"I'm not sure about Frank."

She took his cup and plate. "Why don't you rest? Maybe you could sleep. I'll go back to the point for a while and then sneak away so quietly you won't wake or be disturbed."

"Don't go yet. Why did you say that about Frank?" he asked.

"Well, he wants to marry me."

"And you don't want to marry him, Karen?"

"I'm not sure, Mr. Barton. I think I do, often. It's so fond of him. Other times—it's all pretty mixed up. Then," she went on earnestly, "the talks of going away, perhaps to Chicago, where he has relatives. I suppose there isn't much future for him in the bank here and he's ambitious."

"Is that why you're uncertain?"

"Partly. He thinks I'm stubborn, wanting to stay here the rest of my life. He says I'm able to live anywhere. But I wouldn't be happy, Mr. Barton. And I am happy here."

She looked at him soberly, frowning. "Aunt Mame would like me to marry Frank. She doesn't urge it, but I know it would please her. My mother likes him, too. I—Mr. Barton, how do you know you're in love?"

"If you don't know, you aren't, I expect," he answered and sat up. The dizziness was gone, as were the darting lights. He said: "I'm all right now. You run along and get some work done before you have to go. And thanks for everything."

She went, but not before he had seen her eyes widen with the suggestion of an unexpected hurt. He sat quite still for a moment and then put his head, which ached dully, in his hands in the old, futile gesture.

He had not bargained for this, the impossible, the hopeless. But here it was. There was nothing he could do about it, except to ask why. Why did this have to happen?

He tried to rationalize. I was, I am, lonely, as she is kind and gentle; she is very young and merry; her face changes with her thoughts. She laughs easily; perhaps she cries as easily. I don't know. I know she has courage, and yet is afraid. I suppose she has faults: as yet I've not seen them. And she is strong, with a kind of mountain strength.

She is 22 years old, but I'll be 46 soon.

Now he recalled with horrid clarity, like a mental wire recording, a day during the summer before Tim's death, when a letter from a school friend recorded that his parents were to get a divorce, because his father had fallen in love with, and wished to marry, a much younger woman.

"Well, gosh, what an old fool!" was Tim's comment.

She likes me. She likes to be with me. But I don't believe for a moment that she's in love with me, he thought. Yet—if she could be?

He'd seen at close quarters several marriages in which there was a marked age discrepancy. They'd turned out well.

I don't feel 45—46. . . .

Who does? A man looks into a mirror and is affronted by the false reflection. He admits certain facts that are evident in the body, warning signals, a lessened vigor, an inability to take as much punishment in work or pleasure; and in the mind caution has, to some extent, replaced impulse, the self-taught discipline is ruler. But apart from body and mind the inner self is not persuaded. And so the ego, denying the evidence of the physical eyes, the evidence of a sober mind; the stubborn ego, repudiating the years.

I could give her so much.

What is much? The material endowment? Not this alone, never merely this. Beyond it, the fairy tale unfolding. She sits there, beyond the windows (but I will not look out to confirm this) and paints the running river, the leafy trees, the pure horizon where the mountain's bulk lifts to the sky. This she could have in abundance, the best teachers, and the immense, paintable world, unrolling like a bright skein before her eyes.

But her world is here; it is small, she is afraid to leave it.

She could be persuaded, surely? It would take time and patience, but could be effected. If she loved me, it might not be difficult; if she loved me, perhaps there would not even be that problem?

Treating Skin Pigmentations

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ALTHOUGH it is primarily a cosmetic problem, degree of pigmentation of one's skin may have a profound effect on the emotions, and perhaps even affect the social aspects of a person's life.

One of the most difficult problems faced by men and women is over- or under-pigmentation of their skin that may follow certain diseases. When this abnormal pigmentation occurs on the exposed portions of the hands, legs, or face, its effect may be particularly painful emotionally.

Some Causes

A substance in the skin known as melanin determines the amount of coloration present. Diseases of the adrenal glands or Addison's disease may cause extreme pigmentation of the body. Some perfume can bring over-pigmentation on the parts of the body where it has been applied. In certain diseases such as vitiligo, there is lack of pigmentation and white spots appear on the skin. Pregnancy may cause over-coloration and darkening of the skin.

Some persons have difficulty with this condition when the skin is exposed to sunlight. Most persons ignore freckles; however, some women and men are cosmetically ashamed of them.

Until recently, little results have been obtained in treating over-pigmentation of the skin.

A Few Became Allergic

Of the eighty-four patients on which this ointment was tried, sixty-four showed good improvement after two to six months. However, a few patients became allergic to it and had to discontinue the treatment, even though the ointment was helping their pigmentation condition.

The ointment was especially effective in cases of severe freckling. Of course, mild or moderate freckling should not be treated, as these freckles usually disappear by themselves during the winter months.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. W.: Our house has a disagreeable odor coming from one of the walls. The family who lived in this house before us kept cats in the closet. Is there any way we can rid the house of this odor?

Answer: If you apply oil of juniper lightly to the wall where the odor is coming from, it should disappear.

news behind

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — The transfer of the able and likeable Walter Williams from Commerce to the White House staff on the eve of President Eisenhower's departure for his Denver vacation reflects Ike's awareness of congressional and party Republicans' dissatisfaction with his handling of bread-and-butter political chores. Specifically, it implies a recognition of mounting criticism of Sherman Adams, liaison man with Capitol Hill and the GOP.

Williams is as gracious, as co-operative and as understanding as the Yankee from New Hampshire is aloof and Olympian. A successful businessman, he once headed the Committee for Economic Development, a group of industrialists who advocate the mildly liberal policies which Eisenhower privately favors but does not always advocate as President.

NOT HAPPY—In view of his connections with business and industry, it had been expected that Williams would rate the job as secretary of commerce. But when policies required the appointment of Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, an Adams crony and co-worker in the New England organization's affairs, Williams became under secretary. It is understood that he has not been too happy as second to the wealthy Bay Stater, who has made several major blunders in his six months in Washington.

Ike, however, cannot forget his political debts to Weeks and Adams. They were largely responsible for his defeat of the late Senator Taft in the key New Hampshire primary early in 1952. Had Eisenhower been rebuffed in that first test in the East, the cradle of his political birth, he might not have been nominated in Chicago. But now, both are handicaps to him.

ASSIGNMENT—Williams also headed the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower in the convention struggle and the campaign. It was this organization which mobilized elements of the electorate that liked Ike, but were not too keen for his Republican associates. They testified to the President's vote-getting popularity.

Thus, Williams now has two assignments. He will try to improve relations with the politicians and Republican members of Congress in everyday dealings with them. Adams has rubbed their sensitive fur the wrong way.

He will also set to work to revive the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower in anti-pation of the 1954 congressional campaign. Unless they can be persuaded to turn out and vote for Republican legislative candidates for Ike's sake, he may be confronted with a hostile Congress in the last two years of his first term. That could be disastrous.

NO BUDGING—Many Republican leaders had hoped that Gov. Hugh Gregg of New Hampshire would appoint Adams to the Senate vacancy created by the death of Charles W. Tobey, thus removing the controversial figure from the White House scene in a painless operation. Instead, he named Robert W. Upton, a 69-year-old lawyer, who preferred Taft to Eisenhower as the 1952 nominee.

Gregg also creased Republican brows by explaining that, despite suggestions he take Tobey's place, he did not feel he should abdicate the governorship "at this time." The quoted qualification suggests that he may make the senatorial attempt next fall, and that Upton is only a one-year seat warmer.

If Gregg entertains these ambitions, and it is assumed here that he does, another scheme for removing Adams from his present post near the throne would be upset.

By Ray Tucker

There is the hope that the White House aide would resign and try for the Tobey vacancy next fall. That would eliminate the possibility that he might enter the primary against Sen. Styles Bridges, who must seek re-election at the same time.

HARMONY—Earlier talk of an Adams-Bridges fight for the nomination has been muted. For the sake of Republican harmony on and off Capitol Hill, Ike could hardly permit his personal chief of staff to oppose the popular Bridges, who is President pro tem of the Senate, chairman of the all-powerful Appropriations Committee and senior Republican in the Upper Chamber.

In the last session Bridges showed his resentment against the prospect of opposition from Adams. He bucked the White House on several important issues.

Thus, a trio of Republicans from the relatively small state of New Hampshire—Gregg, Adams and Bridges—have it in their power to make or break the Eisenhower Administration in the next few critical years. For the hostility toward Adams is antagonizing elements whose defection could prove fatal to Ike's legislative and political program.

Oil Industry May Dislike Change In Iran

Over-Abundance Of Supply Worries Petroleum Chiefs

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Iran's oil—should it start flowing again into world trade routes—might prove as embarrassing to the oil industry as its stoppage proved in world diplomatic circles.

Internationally operating oil companies have long ago increased production to more than make up for the loss of Iran's oil. They are talking about ways to handle a possible glut of world petroleum supplies. Iran's oil would just add to their distribution and quota problems.

And it would be less than welcome to independent oil producers in America, who are seeing their own production cut back because of big supplies—and, they contend, because of imports of oil from the Middle East.

Iran's oil won't be flowing again any time soon, of course. Even if the new government gets a firm hold on the country, there still would be long and ticklish negotiations with England and the United States before the old Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. properties could be put back into operation. And oilmen here are far from sure the revolt in Iran will stick or that it spells out such an outcome.

Before Mossadegh seized the oil fields and the Abadan refinery, Anglo-Iranian was exporting 150,000 barrels of crude oil daily and some 450,000 barrels of refined products daily from its holdings there, valued at $1½ billion dollars.

In the two years since Iran's oil industry closed down, the company has expanded its production in other lands and has now regained the loss completely.

Oil output in other Middle Eastern countries was also expanded greatly. Much of it goes to new refineries in Europe. Some of it has been coming to the refineries on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States.

If Iran began shipping again, American and other companies operating in the Middle East might have the delicate problem of cutting output in these lands—thus paring their revenues and possibly stirring up resentment.

Or they might try shipping more here. But the Independent Petroleum Association of America has been urging congress to limit oil imports to 10 per cent of the domestic demand, and could be expected to fight any increase of imports from the Middle East.

WASHINGTON (AP)—If this story had a title it would be: A tale of no progress, or how history repeats itself.

In January 1946, five months after the first atomic bomb had been dropped on Hiroshima, the General Assembly of the United Nations held its first meeting. At once it voted to create a commission to find an answer to the question: how to get all nations to agree to outlaw the bomb in such a way that no one could cheat?

By Sept. 23, 1949 the commission, which included the United States and Russia, had met more than 200 times without finding a solution. On that date President Truman had an important announcement.

The Russians, he said, had produced an atomic explosion. He said this development emphasized the necessity for "truly effective, enforceable international control of atomic energy."

Four years passed, a period in which it seemed likely the Russians might have been able to build a stockpile of several hundred bombs and the United States, since it had a head start, might have been able to store thousands.

In order to be sure it stayed ahead of the Russians the United States, in those four years, began work on the hydrogen bomb. The Russians apparently were doing the same, although they didn't say so.

In those same four years the U.N. commission couldn't find a formula for outlawing atomic weapons on which Russia and the West could agree.

Yesterday, just a little less than four years after Truman announced they had produced an atomic explosion, the Russians announced they had exploded a kind of hydrogen bomb.

Immediately the United States Atomic Energy Commission confirmed the Russian claim to the extent of indicating the Russians had managed an explosion of a hydrogen nature, similar to earlier American tests.

And yesterday, just a few hours after these statements by Russia and the United States, the U.N. Disarmament Commission held a brief session in New York and adopted its annual report.

In the seven years since January 1946, had the commission found a way to control atomic weapons and a formula for general disarmament? No. The commission just wanted to report its failure to agree.

The commission, in fact, had not met since October 1952, because of a deadlock between the West and Russia. For one thing, Russia opposed the West's plan for check-

Gourmet Can Find Wonderful Adventure On Ocean Liners

NEW YORK (AP)—Transatlantic shipping lanes are almost the last hunting grounds of the gourmet and his greedy brother, the gourmand.

Not only do passengers on today's luxury liners have leisure for epicurean adventures, but their cost is absorbed completely in first-class passage fares.

"Today, about the only possible thing on a nation's atomic development," the commission, the report said, did not meet because no new plans had been offered since October a year ago.

And yesterday—just as on the day in 1949 when Truman told the world of Russia's atomic explosion and called for renewed efforts to control the bomb—Sen. Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, made a plea.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee now attending the General Assembly meeting in New York, proposed action by the American and Russian governments to control atomic power.

Andrei Vishinsky, the Soviet delegate, was reported to have said yesterday that he may have something "in time," which means he'll suggest a Russian disarmament plan in the Assembly in September.

Since the West and Russia haven't been able yet to find the answer to the question raised in the United Nations seven years ago, there's no reason to expect they'll find one any time soon.

Most of the cockroaches which are pests in America have immigrated from other countries.

Students, Public Glad To See Fire

DENVER (AP)—When a $48,000 fire gutted Denver's Manual High School, the students were not alone in their cheering. They were joined today by taxpayers when the school board announced:

The school was abandoned at the end of the last school year, and the students are to enter a new, modern building across the street next month.

The loss was fully covered by insurance. The city was saved much of the estimated $42,000 wrecking project it had planned.

Huge Ballot Facing Ohioans in November

Nine Constitution Changes To Be Decided By Buckeye Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the ballots for Ohioans to mark at the Nov. 3 election is blanket-sized.

It measures 15 by 25 inches and contains nine proposed changes in the state constitution. Most of the proposals deal with obsolete or inconsistent sections.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown prescribed the ballots to county election boards for printing. He said their size was necessary because the 100th General Assembly required considerable explanation printed on some of the questions.

Each question provides spaces for yes or no X marks by voters. A favorable majority vote by those marking each question is required for passage.

Similar ballots for precincts using voting machines also were prescribed.

Two controversial questions deal with a 500 million dollar highway bond issue and a state board of education.

Proceeds from the bond issue would be used solely for arterial highways and their urban extensions. Only 125 million dollars worth of bonds could be issued annually and none after March 31, 1962. Road revenues already in effect would retire the bonds by 1972.

The proposed state board of education would select a state superintendent of education, now appointed by the governor.

Another question offered by the legislature will not go on ballots until November, 1954. It calls for a decision on four-year terms for elective state officials and legislators.

Issues in the order of their ballots appearance call for:

1. A 500 million dollar highway bond issue.

2. A state board of education to pick a state school superintendent.

3. Removal of the word "white" from the article providing that "all white male citizens . . . being 18 years of age and under the age of 45 years, shall be enrolled in the militia . . ."

4. Repeal of the section, no longer used calling for election of militia officers by persons subject to military duty.

5. Elimination of a section empowering the legislature to pick U.S. senators that was changed by amendment but never stricken from the state constitution.

6. Removal of an outmoded section preventing appointment of women to public positions unless those positions involved "the interests or care of women or children or both."

7. Repeal of an 1851 provision creating a commission to revise proceedings of state courts that the legislature later approved.

8. Cancellation of a section applying only to office holders Nov. 7, 1905.

9. Repeal of the section authorizing World War I bonus payments long since made.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Non de plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

It's about time we did something about this bypass. No one can say "It's not my problem." It is every one's problem. Let's do something before the state lets us "do with what we got," which would be an unhappy situation for all of us.

Here are my reasons for favoring a bypass:

People whose business it is to build roads and work out traffic problems, whose knowledge of the situation is far superior to mine, favor the by-pass. These people base their opinion solely on the lives and safety of their fellow man—not on dollars and cents. If this be the case why don't they go ahead, regardless of our opinion? Simply because this is a democracy. They don't want to cram anything down our throats.

The National Chamber of Commerce and such service clubs as Kiwanis and Rotary often publish articles favoring a bypass for all cities located on a busy highway. Theirs is an impartial opinion based on fact and research. They are interested in what will help the town as a whole, not the "what will I get out of it" view.

My third reason is the much discussed subject that the position of the schools necessitates the crossing of the highway by many children. From the continuous disregard of the safety signs by the motorist, it would seem that few people are interested in our children's safety.

Traffic on 23 has become unbelievably heavy. This trend will continue until every one will be complaining of the "thundering horde." Normal Winter traffic is now what a very few years back was heavy Summer traffic. Let's look ahead, the bypass will be a must in a few years. Why not help keep taxes down by doing it now. The failure to bypass a city today is like retaining a two-

Red Newspaper Brings Volunteers

SAN ANSELMO, Calif. (AP)—Pravda won't like this but the Moscow newspaper gave Mrs. Carmel Booth an assist in her appeal for civil defense volunteers.

Mrs. Booth, the local civil defense director, was right in the middle of an appeal when she was handed a message—Pravda had announced the Russians had exploded a hydrogen bomb.

Eight people leaped to their feet and volunteered.

Playing Cowboy Costs Lad's Life

COLUMBUS (AP)—David Herman Perry, 9-year-old Columbus polo victim who enjoyed playing cowboy, was killed yesterday when he accidentally hanged himself from a garage rafter.

Police said he probably fell off an overturned bushel basket while playing with a nylon clothesline noose around his neck.

lane bridge on a four-lane highway.

My fifth reason is probably fantastic to most of you. You will say "it can't happen here." Sincerely I hope not. If an emergency should arise, whether by an act of God or an attack upon our country (we are in a critical area and Route 23 is a military highway), our highways would be congested with not only our own people, but people from other cities. Some highways would be closed to civilian use. Many in the East already have been labeled as closed to civilian traffic if an emergency arises. The bypass would do much to carry the overflow. Silly, impractical thinking? Maybe.

Finally, I feel that Circleville is growing up, becoming mature. Petty differences and financial interests should not stand in the way of what is right and best for the town.

I am asking that my name be withheld from this letter, not because I am timid about signing it but because I do not wish the signature to influence the reader in any way.

A Reader.

Not All Women Gold-Diggers, Veteran Lady Lawyer Says

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Most women are not gold-diggers, says Tiera Farrow, a practicing lawyer in Kansas City, Mo., to 50 years.

Miss Farrow, pink-cheeked and white-haired, has handled thousands of divorce cases in her long career in the law. Her verdict: "Most women don't want alimony these days, unless there are children to be supported. And even then many prefer to take over the responsibility of raising their offspring alone. Modern women are self-sufficient, able to stand on their own feet, and most of them get married or unmarried for love and not for money."

This pioneer female lawyer whose book "Lawyer in Petticoats" will be published next month, started her practice in 1903, when there were only 200 women lawyers in the country. Today there are 4,000. In those days, she says, judges were alarmed and spectators shocked to see a woman take her place in the lawyers' enclosure of a courtroom. She recalls:

"All lawyers rely heavily on precedent. But when I took my first case, I didn't have any precedent. I had never seen another woman lawyer; I didn't know whether I should take my hat off in the courtroom, or where I should sit, or anything. So I just

Soon, she says, she was able to overcome the prejudice against "lawyers in skirts" and prove that in certain cases a woman can be more effective than a man. One of these is in representing the wife in a divorce case. Says she:

"A woman just naturally understands the problems of another woman better than a man does, and is more sympathetic. Also, she's willing to let her client talk—and women love to talk about their troubles, you know. A man lawyer is likely to get impatient when his client rambles on and on, but a woman will listen and sympathize."

Miss Farrow believes women lawyers are likely to be less quarrelsome in court than men, and to show more respect for the judge.

Oil Well Sunk To 20,521 Feet

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—The world's deepest oil well is in California now.

Ohio Oil Company's exploratory hole in the Paloma field, 17 miles southeast of here, reached a depth exceeding the previous mark of 20,521 feet, established four years ago by the Superior Oil Co. in Sublette County, Wyoming.

A spokesman indicated the well is in lower Miocene era formation and probably will be deepened to reach Eocene sands, where geologists believe new oil bearing sands will be discovered. The well is known as KCLA 27-4.

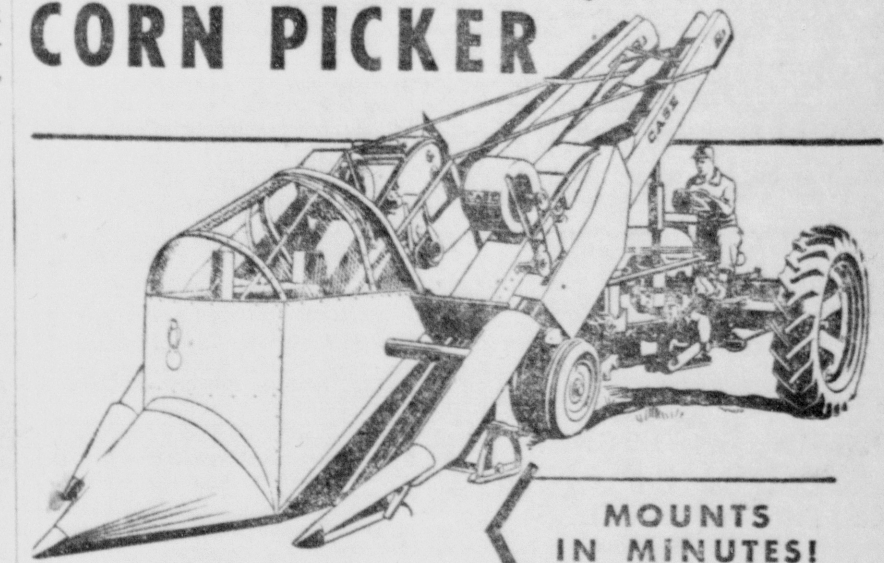

Drilling began Oct. 23, 1951, and so far approximately 14½ million dollars has been invested.

Hatters To Meet Texaco Friday Night For 1953 District Title

Circleville's Top Hat softball team will meet Chillicothe Texacos in a battle at 8:30 p. m. Friday in Greenfield for the 1953 district softball tournament championship.

Top Hat moved into position to bid for the tourney title Thursday night by scoring a 5-1 victory over the Texaco crew.

Hatter swatters earlier this week won the loser's bracket in the tourney, while Texaco had gone through the tourney undefeated until Thursday night to take winner's bracket honors.

By virtue of the double elimination setup, each team must be beaten en twice to be eliminated. Both the Hatters and Texaco have one defeat now, the next match to determine the championship.

IN THURSDAY'S encounter, Stillman Morrison started for the Hatters and blanked the Texaco crew for the first two frames. He was relieved in the fourth by Ken Reid after he gave up a hit, the batter advancing to second on a wild pitch and scoring on a single to give the Texaco team a one-run edge.

Reid worked the next four innings without giving up any runs, and allowed only one more base hit. Top Hat, blanked for the first three frames, deadlocked the score at 1-1 in the fourth when Lloyd Minor punched out a two-bagger and scored on a single by Bob Tracey.

A four-run spree

Third Place Races Drawing Chief Interest

First Two Positions In Each Loop Appear To Be Sewed Up Now

By The Associated Press

The race for final positions in the major league standings appears to be all over in both circuits except to find out who's going to finish third.

Although there are still five weeks to play it's mostly just a question of waiting for the World Series—for Brooklyn and the New York Yankees—and for next year.

The third place races, however, are another story. Cleveland holds third in the American League by only half a game over the Boston Red Sox. St. Louis has a game edge on Philadelphia in the National.

To an individual player it is worth about twice as much to be a member of a third place finisher instead of with a fourth place club. The players on the first four clubs share in World Series receipts.

Except for the third place battles at least six games separate the clubs in their present positions in the National League. Only seven games divide the last place St. Louis Browns from the sixth place Athletics in the American League, with Detroit sandwiched in between. But none of these clubs has shown any indication that it will improve greatly or collapse between now and the end of the season.

The league leading Dodgers and Yankees each have a nine game edge. Brooklyn has 36 games to play, New York 35.

In yesterday's curtailed activity the Dodgers thumped the New York Giants 10-0; St. Louis defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-3 and Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 5-2 in the National League. The Yankees whipped Washington 7-0 and Cleveland bounced Detroit 13-7 in the American.

Cool Weather Claimed Boon To Anglers Throughout Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's cool weather streak has been a boon to the state's fishermen, the state wildlife division reported today.

The division said prospects for the weekend are "very good" if the lower temperatures continue. Fishing improved last week and should remain good for the coming week if the temperatures stay down, the division said. Stream and lake conditions are reported clear throughout the state.

Stream and lake conditions by districts:

East Central and Southeastern Ohio—All streams reported clear and low. Lakes clear. Athens County—Burr Oak Lake clear, fishing fair. Muskingum County—Muskingum River clear. Tuscarawas County—Tappan Lake clear. Vinton County—Lake Hope and Lake Alma clear, fishing fair.

Northeastern Ohio—Most streams reported clear, lakes clear. Lake County—Lake Erie clear, fishing reported good the past week for Walleyes. Ashtabula County—Pyramus Lake clear, fishing fair.

Pronto Don Heads Field At Yonkers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Pronto Don, the biggest money winning trotter of all time, with $255,230, heads a field of eight in the Putnam at Yonkers Raceway tonight. If he wins, Don will add something like $10,000 to his earnings.

The big money race of the week at the course was last night's Yonkers pacing derby, worth $25,000, and won by Wilmington's Star. The winner was caught in 3:06. This clipped two seconds from the track record for a mile and a half.

The time was only two-fifths of a second off the world mark set July 30 by Chuck Volo in winning the $50,000 Nassau Pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

Wilmington's Star, owned by R. L. Craig of Urbana, Ohio, was well up in the 12-horse field during the entire distance, and passed the pace-setting Thomas B. Scott in the final surge from the top of the stretch.

Sport Briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Detroit's entry in the American Legion junior baseball tournament gets a chance to eliminate the defending champions tonight when it plays Cincinnati Bentley, Winnetka, Ill., gave Cincinnati its first defeat in this double-elimination tournament yesterday, 13-10. Detroit knocked out LaFayette, Ind., 5-2.

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—James Reese, a tackle on the Ohio State University football team in 1941 and 1942 before entering service, will assist head coach Fred Raizick with the Wilmington College line this fall. Reese is agriculture teacher and golf coach at Wilmington High School and will devote only part time to the college post.

Sokolosky's These Days

Lodge's arguments were sound and correct. That they have not prevailed is due to the intellectual incapacity of the State Department to stand up to the British when they are wrong.

If a war of aggression can result in the aggressors being rewarded, and if members of the United Nations can support a war against the United Nations, then it is clear beyond doubt that the United Nations must go the way of the League of Nations after the Japanese invaded Manchuria in 1931 and the Italians invaded Ethiopia in 1935.

After aggression was permitted to stand unpunished, the League ceased to have meaning and World War II became inevitable. The appeasement of Communist China and Soviet Russia by Great Britain is designed not only to increase trade for the Commonwealth countries, but also to keep India within the Commonwealth.

Yet, any student of Asiatic problems must recognize that India is in peril of a Communist revolution which will occur after the Chinese Communists have taken Indo-China and Thailand. The peril to world peace is still in Asia.

The current British policies do not limit this peril; in fact, the strengthening of the position of Communist China must ultimately weaken the position of Great Britain in Asia.

There is one factor in this situation which needs mention because the British believe it to be true, namely, that at some time the Chinese Communists and Soviet Russia will split. They apparently believe that such a split will save the world.

Thiel Gives Toledo Win Over Indians

By The Associated Press

Bert Thiel, making his first start in a month for Toledo, pitched and batted the Sox to a 7-2 victory over Indianapolis last night.

The win continued Toledo's game-and-a-half edge on the runner-up Louisville Colonels, who beat Kansas City, 2-0.

In other games, St. Paul downed Minneapolis, 4-1, and Charleston defeated Columbus, 5-4.

Thiel socked a three-run double and Bill Queen smacked a three-run homer to account for all but one of Toledo's runs.
